Proposes Slash In Surtaxes to Spur Recovery

Senate Finance Committee Member Says Plan Would Increase Revenues, Boom Employment; Calls For Close Check On Roosevelt's Defense Tax Plan.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Chairman Pat Harrison (D., Miss.) of the senate finance committee, countered President Roosevelt's $460,000,000 national defense tax plan today by suggesting a cut in upper bracket surtax levies which, he said, would increase revenue, encourage capital, and foster re-employment.

Harrison indicated doubt that the emergency national defense expenditure was justified. He said he would introduce in the senate next week a resolution calling for creation of a joint legislative committee to examine Mr. Roosevelt's fiscal program with the idea of drafting a congressional budget for 1941. He felt that the president was "pretty optimistic" if he thought congress would remain within the budget limit of appropriations proposed to the house and senate yesterday.

Harrison's tax move would clip 15 per cent from surtax levies on individual income, holding the maximum rate at 60 per cent instead of the current 75. The 60 per cent surtax now begins at $200,000 and it is in effect until it is stepped up to 62 per cent on $250,000 incomes. The rate is graduated upward to 75 per cent on $5,000,000 income and over.

Mr. Roosevelt's 1941 budget to collect $6,150,000,000 in tax revenue including old age pension taxes and spend $8,424,000,000 got a mixed reception in congress. But most comment was wholly general with the detailed opposition and support still to develop.

His request for $460,000,000 in election year taxes chilled congressional blood and the early winter book quotations are against so much of a hike, if any.

Senate Republicans met today to consider the latest New Deal budget and what to do about it. Senate Minority Leader Charles L. McNary (R., Ore.) said that he thought "normal activities of the government should not be crippled to provide funds for an unnecessary defense program."

"I'd say that super-appropriations for national defense should await the result of experimentation in wars now being waged," he said.

SPECIAL VOTE HELD UNLIKELY

Ashbrook and Bolton Posts in Congress to Be Empty Until November.

Gov. John W. Bricker's desire for economy makes unlikely an early special election to fill two Ohio congressional vacancies, it was reported in Columbus today.

Sources close to the governor said present indications are that he will follow custom and call special elections to coincide with the May primary and November election.

The governor, taking a short vacation, is expected to make his decision on his return next week. Holding special elections on regular voting days would entail little additional expense.

The vacancies include the 17th district congressional seat, caused by the death Monday of William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown, and in the 22nd (Cleveland) district by the death several weeks ago of Rep. C. C. Bolton.

Official estimates of the cost for a separate primary and election in the 17th district are $40,000 and $60,000 for the 22nd. Even a special nominating primary with an election at the May primary would cost $20,000 and $30,000, respectively.

Murphy's Successor as U. S. Attorney General Groomed for Dem Nomination.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—As 46-year-old Frank Murphy sadly winds up his meteoric career as attorney general, the New Deal's "inner circle" today begins a second campaign to build up his successor, Robert H. Jackson, of New York, into a presidential timber.

The insiders now hope Jackson can capture the country's imagination as a crusading attorney general and win the Democratic presidential nomination — always providing President Roosevelt does not seek a third term. And, if Jackson fails to win the top spot, the insiders plan to run him as a

Declares Nazis Will Lose War But Not Till They Involve U. S.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Capt. Franz Von Rintelen, chief German sabotage agent in the United States in the World war, expresed conviction today that the Nazi cause was hopelessly lost in this war but that before the war ended the United States navy would be involved by German U-boat activity.

Rintelen, in exile who is in close touch with the British admiralty because he believes that the defeat of the Nazis would be in the best interests of his country, was interviewed at the Royal Automobile club.

"The same recklessness of youthful German submarine commanders which made the hair of members of the German imperial high command in the World war stand on end — some fantastic, reckless act of youthful German navy men who do not know the difference between a warship and a channel steamer—will overtax the patience of the United States and throw the American navy into the war," he said.

"It is a war which is going to spread, particularly at sea. I can not see the American dough boys coming over here again. I don't think that Americans would stand

Reported Decision Reached After Finland Recaptures Ruined Town of Salla.

RUSSIANS IN NEW FLIGHT

Helsinki Claims Remnants of Defeated Division Fleeing Back to Frontier.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI — Forced to drastic measures by continued Finnish victories—signalized today by recapture of the ruined town of Salla—Soviet Russia has decided to throw 2,000,000 men into the field, according to reliable information in Helsinki.

This huge force will be divided into two sections, one-half attacking on the Karelian isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga, while the balance is set up as a reserve force behind the main lines and subjected to intensive training under officers already experienced in Finnish warfare.

The Russian decision came as no surprise to the Finns, whose second major victory of the war at Salla, accomplished after fierce fighting on the north-central front, had convinced them that the Soviets must soon recipitated major warfare by sheer force of numbers to escape ignominy of defeat by a nation one-fiftieth their size.

An entire Soviet division was vanquished at Salla. Finnish reports said, and its remnants were reported fleeing in wild disorder toward the Soviet frontier. A two-day battle of major proportions preceded the latest Finnish victory.

The board of park commissioners was established a year ago and Gibson's one year term expired Dec. 31. Other members of the three-man commission are Roy Vaughn whose term expires at the end of 1940, and H. G. Brunner whose term expires Dec. 31, 1941.

Century-Old Church Swept By Fire at Millersburg

Flames Break Out Second Time After Meeting of Deacons; Loss Estimated at $35,000.

(By Staff Correspondent)

MILLERSBURG—Fire that apparently had been extinguished earlier in the evening destroyed the 100-year-old Trinity Lutheran church in Millersburg last night shortly after 100 persons left a deacons' meeting in the building.

The loss was estimated by the pastor, Rev. H. H. Creager, at $35,000. There was about $20,000 in insurance on the structure.

Persons attending a dinner meeting in the church about 7 p. m. noticed smoke in the auditorium and called the village fire department. A section of the pulpit was torn out and water was thrown into the opening.

Believing the fire was out, the fire department left and the meeting was continued. About 11:15 p. m., 30 minutes after the building was emptied, the roof burst into flames and the blaze was beyond control before the fire department returned.

New Addition Damaged.

A $9,000 addition to the church, erected two years ago, was badly damaged, but only the main structure was destroyed. Lost in the fire were three pianos and a pipe organ.

Church officials said the fire probably started from a defective flue and smoldered under the floor for several hours before bursting into the open.

Mayor Robert Hallam of Millersburg who lives next door to the church said he saw no sign of fire at the building a half hour before the flames were discovered by a passerby.

Trinity church was the only Lutheran church in Millersburg.

Body of Woman Found Stuffed in Receptacle by Junk Man.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The battered body of an unidentified woman was found stuffed in an expensive steamer trunk by a junk man today.

The junk man, Frank Robinson, said he found the trunk in an alley, propped against a fence. Police said the woman had been dead seven or eight hours when her body was found. She was about 45 years old and her body gave evidence of a terrific beating. There was a gaping wound in the forehead.

Police took the body to a nearby mortuary for closer examination. Robinson dragged the trunk to a vacant lot before he opened it and found the body. The victim was wearing what police described as good but inexpensive clothing.

Transferred from the Pittsburgh plant nine years ago, Cosgrove came to Mansfield in 1931 as manager of commercial refrigeration sales. He later took charge of household refrigeration sales and last fall became assistant sales manager.

Dispatches from Cincinnati said Powel Crosley, jr., president of the Crosley corporation, will remain in active direction of the general policies of the company and that Lewis M. Crosley will continue as executive vice president.

GAS FUMES PUT 8 IN HOSPITAL

Severe Cold Cracks Main, Lets Vapors Into Houses.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Eight persons were in serious condition in City hospital today after being overcome by gas seeping into their homes from a broken main as they lay asleep during the night.

Police said the main is believed to have cracked as a result of the coldest weather of the winter. The municipal airport reported 9 below zero.

The escaping gas, kept underground by the frozen surface, seeped through cracks in the ground and along pipe lines into basements in the vicinity. Several residents were awakened and called police, who spread an alarm.

New Date For '40 County Fair Likely As Result Of Conflict

The Richland county fair board is slated to change the date of the 1940 fair when it meets at the courthouse Saturday afternoon to elect officers and plan the annual exposition, H. H. Wolf, president of the board, said today.

A month ago the board set the fair for July 31 to Aug. 3, inclusive, but the secretary of state refused to approve that date, so the board must either change it or hold the fair under protest.

In turning down the date chosen by the board, Secretary of State Earl Griffith pointed out that the 1940 fair had been set for a week later than last year.

He said he was attempting to get boards to choose a date and hold it in order to avoid conflicts caused by frequent changes in schedules.

In view of the refusal to accept the later date it was believed the board will move the 1940 fair up a week, making it the same date as the 1939 fair.

R. D. Hale, secretary of the board, will submit a financial report of last year's fair at tomorrow's session scheduled for 1:30 p. m. A preliminary report last month showed that the 1939 exposition made a profit for the first time in recent years.

Winter renewed its attack with more vigor as a sub-zero wave swept into Ohio from the northwest, giving the Mansfield area its coldest day since 1936.

The temperature was two below zero in Mansfield at 10 a. m. and one below at noon, and a reading of at least 10 below zero was expected by tonight.

There is little hope for relief from the new frigid blast before Sunday, the weatherman said. He predicted fair and colder tonight and Saturday morning, with the possibility of slightly warmer weather by Saturday afternoon or Sunday.

The new frigid blast struck unexpectedly early today after the mercury had climbed to 19 above late Thursday, the highest reading in six days.

Cold Follows Snowfall.

About an inch and a half of snow fell in Mansfield last night during the brief respite from the bitter cold. It was after skies cleared that the cold wave struck.

While the snowfall was not heavy enough here to block roads, the county and state highway departments had their snow plows busy by early morning, clearing all main routes. Cinders and salt were spread on slippery streets and highways to reduce traffic hazards.

Snowfall was heavier in other sections of the state, with more than three inches reported along Lake Erie and in the northeastern counties and three inches at Columbus.

U. S. Sends Formal Protest to London On Ship 'Losses'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The American government has warned Great Britain it would hold her responsible for damages resulting from "losses and injuries" if American ships were forced into British control ports.

The state department released today the text of a long note given to the British ambassador for forwarding to his government.

At the same time it disclosed that an American ship, the Moormacsun, of the Moore and McCormack line, en route to Bergen, had been taken into Kirkwall, one of the British control ports within the area forbidden United States vessels by the neutrality act.

The department said that since it was a violation of the American neutrality law for an American vessel to enter the combat area, it cabled the American embassy in London last night to communicate immediately with the master of the Moormacsun and obtain a full statement of the circumstances as a preliminary to possible action.

G. O. P. Senators Set To Fight Trade Pact Extension

BLOC AGREES ON POLICY OF 'WATCH, WAIT'

Decides on Cautious Stand on Defense Funds Sought in Roosevelt Message.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senate Republicans, caucusing for the first time in the new congress, appeared today to be in general agreement on a program of active opposition to extending the reciprocal trade treaty act and a "watchful waiting" attitude on defense appropriations.

Senator McNary of Oregon, who called the minority party members together, said he thought the Republicans as a whole were opposed to enactment of new taxes, believing that savings in regular government expenditures could be combined with a careful pruning of the defense program to obviate the necessity of raising additional funds.

"In my opinion," McNary told reporters before the meeting, "super-appropriations for national defense should await the result of experimentation in the wars now being waged in the out the world.

"I don't believe that the normal activities of government should be crippled to provide funds for an unnecessarily large national defense, but I do believe that departmental expenditures should be substantially reduced."

Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant minority leader, said he would support a move to raise taxes to meet a part of the defense costs, rather than to increase the public debt. He said, however, that he wanted to be sure that all the requested funds would be needed.

Wants to Know Facts.

"What congress needs to know before it votes on this proposed new defense program," he declared, "is what has been done on the program that it already has approved.

"We want to be sure that we are not biting off more than we can chew in a construction sense. The tendency is always to waste when you appropriate more than you can spend."

When McNary and House Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts recently agreed to pitch the Republican fight on the grade treaties on a demand for senate ratification of the individual agreements, both Austin and Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said they thought that elimination of the "most favored nation" clause of the act was just as important.

(When the United States extends a tariff concession to one nation in an agreement, the same concession automatically becomes available to all other nations which do not discriminate against United States imports.)

Vandenberg charged that this had permitted the importation of many products of countries which gave the United States no concessions in return.

congress at a disadvantage because the legislators either must go along with his major tax and appropriation plan or accept responsibility for pushing the national debt over the $45,000,000,000 limit ahead of schedule—and the schedule definitely provides that it shall not go over until the presidential elections, if it must go over at all.

Harrison said his proposed joint committee should be representative of the senate and house appropriations committees, the senate finance committee and the house ways and means committee. If it were established, he said it should report within 60 days and that it would be better if no appropriation bills were considered pending the report.

Chairman Edward T. Taylor, D., Colo., of the house appropriations committee, was inclined to oppose Harrison, recalling that after the house had cut deeply into appropriations last session, the senate had added an aggregate of $500,000,000 to the sums voted by congress. The house is jealous of its economy record and resentful of the senate.

Taylor objected to postponing consideration of appropriations bills until such a committee could report. He said four appropriations bills were ready and that the house would proceed on schedule. Chairman Robert L. Doughton, D., N. C., of the house ways and means committee said the Harrison plan might be useful. Rep. John N. Taber, R., N. Y., ranking Republican member of the appropriations committee endorsed the joint committee idea.

But representatives and senators shied away from specific tax plans and apparently from the idea that there should be new levies at all this year. Sen. William H. King, D., Utah, and Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., spokesmen of the conservative Democratic bloc, predicted a 1941 fiscal year deficit of $3,000,000,000 (B) or more, far exceeding the figure for which Mr. Roosevelt budgeted. Both George and Harrison felt that raising the debt limit would be proper under certain circumstances and if it were raised, all thought of tax increase would go out the window.

Wenning to Be Candidate But He's Not Sure for What.

County Recorder Howard Wenning took out nominating petitions today for a county office, but he wouldn't say which one he will seek.

Wenning, a Democrat, completing his second term as recorder this year, may try for a third term, he said, or he may seek the nomination for another post at the courthouse.

He is interested in the clerk of courts office held by Fred Zellner, but Zellner has not announced whether he will run again. It is believed that Wenning will wait until he learns what Zellner plans to do before deciding what he will use his petitions for.

"I'm not sure yet what I'll do, and anyway there's plenty of time to decide," Wenning said.

new tactics, sending huge motor-sledges across the ice in an attempt to shatter the Finnish defenses, but each attack was repulsed in turn.

Finnish aviators continued to scatter propaganda leaflets behind the Russian front and at Leningrad, one huge batch of which gave the following instructions to facilitate Soviet surrender.

"Form groups of from six to eight men. Sling rifle from the shoulder muzzle downward and raise hands aloft."

Other pamphlets carried a price list showing what the Finnish army would pay for surrendered weapons. A pistol will bring 100 rubles the announcement said, a rifle 150 rubles, a machine-gun between 1,000 and 1,500 and a tank 10,000 rubles.

"In addition," the leaflets read, "Finland will pay 1,000 American dollars for each airplane received undamaged, plus free transportation for the pilot to any place in the world he wishes to go."

The long-anticipated victory at Salla came after more than two days of violent fighting in which thousands of Finnish and Red army troops were locked in a grim death struggle.

The routed Russian regiment was one which had been rushed to the north central battle front by the Russian high command after the Finns surrounded and cut to pieces the 163rd Soviet division in the war's first decisive battle near Suomussalmi.

Reports from the front indicated that today's victory was won by means of the same tactics that brought about the stunning reverse for the Red army last week.

The Finnish forces, these advices said, waited while the Russians sent huge reinforcements into a carefully planned Finnish trap.

The defending forces then carefully encircled the Russians and finally closed in with deadly swiftness, routing the Russians after a bloody struggle.

With the Russians now beating a hasty retreat for Soviet territory, the Finns were reported mopping up the entire Salla area, capturing huge quantities of abandoned Societ war materials.

Other reports, still unconfirmed, said that Finnish war planes bombed Russian bases and stores at Murmansk, where a large oil depot had been blazing several days.

It was understood that the Finnish air force, which at the outbreak of the war numbered about 250 planes, will have another 400 before the end of January—most of them modern British fighting craft.

Finnish ski patrols composed of some of the country's leading skiers wrecked the Murmansk railroad, authoritative sources said, seriously hampering the flow of Russian supplies to the Red army units in the north.

President Douglas Hyde signs today a bill, speeded through both houses of parliament in two days, empowering the government of prime minister Eamon De Valera to prison without trial persons suspected of treason.

As the senate passed the bill without a recorded vote last night, army trucks were prowling the streets of Cork, where a detective was slain by a suspected IRA leader the night before, rounding up scores of suspected terrorists.

The guard was thrown along the border of the six Ulster counties comprising north Ireland, a part of the British empire, to cut off communications between IRA members in Eire and north Ireland.

The IRA operates as a terrorist organization throughout the British Isles. Before it was outlawed by De Valera, it maintained open headquarters in Eire where it had the most sympathizers by virtue of its aims—to annex north Ireland to Eire. The presence of British troops in north Ireland has always kept the IRA underground there. Most of the bombing outrages attributed to the IRA have occurred in England.

Prior to adoption of the new emergency bill, police could hold suspected terrorists only 48 hours without a hearing. Under the new law they can be held indefinitely.

Sure Sutherland Will Coach Pirate Pros.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh professional football Pirates, said today he had made Jock Sutherland a proposition of "somewhat less than $15,000 a year" and was confident the former Pitt mentor would sign to coach the Bucs next season. Sutherland was reported unofficially to have declined the $7,000 coaching job at West Virginia university.

Hoffman Bans Long Shots for Tonight's Game

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL

DEWEY STOVER is expected to return as skipper of the Braves this year, as this is not generally known, a number of unemployed pilots have filed applications for the job. . . . Included among the applicants is "Pinky" Hargraves, a former major league catcher.

The only Ohio State league that has already signed its manager for this year is Lima, which will again be led by Lefty Settlemire.

Jack Quinn, the old American league veteran, has applied for the post vacated by Chappie Geygan at Fremont, but the Green Sox are not expected to sign a bench manager.

It was difficult to keep from laughing while reading how the Yankees evaded the "No-Trade" rule by dealing with a National league club. There isn't a club in the American league, and few in the National, which couldn't use Lefty Grissom. Yet to whom did the Reds leave the southpaw go—nobody but the world's champions. The Yankees are not only champs on the field, but in the business office as well. You just can't beat 'em.

UNCROWNED CHAMPIONS: The bored wrestling fan who straddled a foot-thick steam pipe 90 feet above the concrete floor of the Boston Garden arena, finally was rescued by firemen after a great deal of commotion, and explained his action by saying, "I worked on the Garden when it was built in 1930 and I just wanted to see if all the rivets still were tight."

Ghnouly No Match For Welter King

ST. LOUIS—(NS)—Henry Armstrong's welterweight boxing crown rested as firmly as ever on his head today following his fifth round knockout of Joe Ghnouly, a fellow St. Louisan, last night before 6,500 fans in Municipal auditorium.

Hammerin' Henry wasn't even slightly disconcerted as he cut down the veteran Gnouly with his usual relentless attack in a scheduled 15-rounder.

Never in trouble himself, Henry made plenty of trouble for his opponent, who went down for three nine counts in the first round, managed to stay on his feet in the second and third by backing up.

Tygers Tackle Toledo

Coach Believes Mansfield Will Be More Effective If It Drives Into Basket.

SHOOT, BOYS, SHOOT," Vern Hoffman, Mansfield high basketball director, told his Tygers yesterday as they completed drills for tonight's game with Toledo Libbey on the home planks.

"But don't shoot until you can see the basket," he warned.

If the Tygers follow these instructions, Hoffman believes they'll take the visiting Cowboys into camp tonight.

"Our trouble this season has been too many long shots," Hoffman declared. He pointed to the Columbus North and Canton McKinley games, particularly the last one.

As the Columbus and Canton teams were the only schools to whip the Tygers this season, Hoffman appears to have a pretty good idea of what he was talking about.

Hoffman contends that baskets are made under the basket and around the "key hole."

He feels that too many scoring chances are wasted by throwing from the mid-court. Long shots are usually attempted to break up tight defensive set-ups, but he believes that the same success can be obtained if a team refuses to quit driving into the basket.

This week's practice may have produced the improvement desired by Hoffman. Tonight's game will probably tell.

Nothing is known about the Toledo quintet as tonight will mark its debut. The Cowboys were forced to delay their opener because of the school shutdown there. They are coached by Bill Orwig, former Michigan star.

Hoffman expects to go into tonight's game with the two Genes, Miller and Rudolph, at the forwards; Russ Beer at center and Bill Herpich and Don Rose at the guards.

A preliminary game is scheduled at 7 p. m.

Ex-Mansfield Stars Optioned to Seals

John Barrett, who made his pro debut as a member of the Mansfield Red Sox in 1937, was optioned to the San Francisco Seals today by the Boston Red Sox to complete the trade for Outfielder Dominic DiMaggio. Barrett, also an outfielder, played with Scranton in the Eastern league last year.

Vie in Finals Of Y Tourney

Bowman, Bushnell Collide, Latter Club Beats Foe, 44-0.

Bowman Street school basketeers met the undefeated Bushnell quintet at 2:45 p. m. today in the championship finals of the Y. M. C. A. grade school tournament on the Y hardwood.

The contest was preceded by the consolation finals at 2 p. m. which tossed Hedges against Prospect.

The Bowman combine, which reached the finals yesterday by beating Hedges, 14 to 0, was expected to have its hands full in halting the high-scoring Bushnell cagers.

Bowman's principal job was to stop Bob Jones, Bushnell's ace scorer, who dumped in 23 points in a semi-final affair yesterday in which the pre-tourney favorite smothered Prospect, 44 to 0.

Two More Red Pitchers Due To Be Traded

Johnny Niggeling Latest Hill Workers of N. L. Champs to Go to American Loop.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— At least two more Red pitchers are to go, Cincinnati Baseball club officials indicated after deals yesterday which disposed of Lefty Lee Grissom to the world champion New York Yankees and Johnny Niggeling to the St. Louis Browns.

It may take spring practice which starts Feb. 26 in Florida to determine which of the 12 remaining members of the National league champions' hurling staff are to be caught in the shakeup.

After announcement of the deals which including trading Grissom for Right Hander Joe Beggs of the Yanks' Newark farm, Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds, wasn't so helpful concerning future trading plans.

"I'll make any deal which will help the team," the deacon repeated.

The next Red pitchers to be up for sale or trade would not be Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer, who valiantly faced the Bronx bombers in the last world series, of that the Rhinelanders were sure.

While New York smiled over getting Grissom, and possibly seeing the Bronx bombers led around the trenches of an American league ban which prevents them from trading in their own league, McKechnie also expressed satisfaction with the deal.

"I saw Beggs pitch in Newark in 1938 and I like his curve ball," the deacon declared. "I don't care what his record is. I like his style and stuff."

The guy named Joe in two tries in the big time hasn't been able to win consistently. Grissom worked in 33 games last season, had a record of nine wins and seven losses, and is a valuable player, some of the bleacher experts said.

The next Red pitcher to be released would not be Rookie Gene Thompson. Lloyd (Whitey) Moore, Johnny Vander Meer, James Turner or Milburn Shoffner, according to choice of speculators.

It would not be the lately acquired Mr. Beggs and that left Charles Barrett, Johnny Hutchings, John Cannon and Elmer Riddle who might go up or down the river in sales or trades.

Bobcats Paced By Baumholtz In 67-44 Win

Scores 26 Points as Ohio U. Hangs Up Sixth Straight Victory at Baltimore.

(By Associated Press)

It's going to be hard to keep Frank Baumholtz, Ohio university forward, off the All-Ohio teams at the end of the basketball season.

The sandy-haired upper-court star flipped in 26 points last night to spark the undefeated Bobcats to their sixth triumph—a 67 to 44 decision over Baltimore university.

Ohio led at the half, 24 to 19, and turned the game into a rout with brilliant field-goal shooting and accuracy from the foul line. The Bobcats made good on 19 of their 27 free throws.

In other games involving Ohio teams Bowling Green stopped Michigan Normal, 39 to 28; Ohio Wesleyan downed Western State Teachers of Michigan, 66 to 56; Calvin of Michigan turned back De Sales, 52 to 43; and Ball State Teachers of Indiana tripped Akron, 50 to 37.

Bowling Green amassed a halftime margin of 21 to 10, but the Normal five cut the lead to four points before the Bee Gee's late-period attack started clicking. Akron's defeat was the fourth consecutive setback for the Zippers.

Ohio Wesleyan posted its fourth victory against three defeats in beating the Michigan team. The Bishops were ahead at intermission, 34 to 22.

Calvin withstood a determined last-half attack to beat De Sales. The lead changed hands five times in the final period after Calvin left the floor at intermission with a 25 to 23 margin.

Shelley, Yuncker and Blue Goose Clubs Share First Round Title

Sports Trim Chocolates, 31 to 30, In Thrilling Game, While Sohioans Halt Electrics, 45-33.

FIRST round laurels in the City Class A league were broken up in three pieces and distributed to the Shelley Chocolates, Yuncker Sports and Blue Goose Sohioans at Mansfield high school last night.

Rallying in the third period to overcome a six-point deficit, Coach Jimmy Breres' Sports outpointed the Noel Morgan's Chocolates, 31 to 30, in one of the finest ball games staged in the league this season.

The defeat was the first for the Chocolates and it enabled the Sports and Pete Hergatt's Blue Goose outfit, which trimmed Hank Richards' Westinghouse Electrics, 45 to 33, to gain a portion, of the tilte.

Shelley's team appeared to be well on its way to victory in the third period when the Sports struck under the lead of Al Stickler. George Baker scored on a pivot to knot the count, 19-all, and Stickler followed with a bucket to give the Yuncker team its first lead of the game.

In the last second of the third quarter, Elmer Dials tallied from the field to tie the score, 21-all.

Freddy Lewis dribbled in and scored to give the Chocolates a 23 to 21 advantage at the start of the final period, but the Shelley cagers did not tally again until the Sports had obtained a seven-point lead.

Bob Burgett set off the spark with three free throws and a field goal and Stickler followed with a pair of baskets on rebounds to put the Sports in front by a 30 to 23 margin.

Refusing to admit defeat, the Chocolates continued to battle and Joe Atton's basket just before the gun sounded brought the Men of Shelley within one point of the Sports' total.

The Chocolates held a 6 to 2 lead in the first period and a 16 to 13 advantage at the half. George Nana was particularly outstanding for the Chocolates and he shared scoring honors for his team with Freddy Lewis with 10 points apiece. Stickler was the Yuncker scoring leader with a dozen points.

Outscored from the field, 13 to 10, the Sports made up the difference at the foul line, converting 11 out of 20 shots, while the Chocolates could tally only four out of 18.

The Blue Goose-Westinghouse game developed into a rather rough setto, with the Sohioans being forced to come from behind in the second period to hold the advantage at the half.

Hergatt's team stepped into a 2 to 0 lead in the first minute and did not lead again until the second period when Tom Ferrell scored to give his club a 13 to 12 advantage. The lead see-sawed until the fading minutes of the first half, and Joe Miller gave the Sohioans the edge with a shot from near the foul line.

The Blue Goose entry never trailed after scoring a 20 to 17 lead at the intermission. Going into the final frame in front by a 29 to 25 margin, the Sohioans continued to add to their lead until they held a 43 to 25 advantage. They coasted the rest of the way.

Ferrel's work on the rebounds was effective, and Bill Moritz and Kenny Lockhart set the scoring pace with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Ferrell contributed nine.

Bob Shade of the Westinghouse club was the offensive leader of the night with 16 points.

Second Orient Star Signed

Walter Achiu Also to Appear On Armory Card.

With Kiman Kudo, Japanese jiu jitsu wrestler, already signed to headline the card in the Armory Monday night, another great oriental ace signed up with Promoter Tim Nolan today to appear on this mat show.

Walter Achiu, flashing Chinese-Hawaiian lightheavyweight, is the star in question and he's been contracted by the matchmaker for the Quality club to meet Bobby Blake, rough and ready blond battler from Columbus in the semi-final of the big Armory card.

Achiu's name has caused much merriment in sports circles and has caused him to be nicknamed "Sneeze." It is pronounced as though it were "Achoo," and is given the same inflection as though it were sneezed.

* * *

The main bout of next Monday night's show in the Armory is a two out of three falls tilt between Kiman Kudo and Alex Kasoboski, "Pitiless Pole" from Toronto, Ont.

Three Retain Share Of Senior Loop Lead

Raemelton, Augustine and Rex Quintets Again Triumph at Friendly House.

THE BATTLE to gain undisputed possession of first place in the Friendly House Senior Class A basketball league title race is developing into a nerve-wrecking affair.

Three combines went into last night's contests on the settlement court sharing the top bracket and when hostilities were over they still were deadlocked for the lead and showed no signs of weakening.

Augustine's Canfield Station quintet, which handed the defending championship Rex Billiards their only defeat, ran off with most of the honors last night by trouncing the Daly Cafe club, 61 to 33.

Raemelton Farm and the Billiards, who share the leadership with the Station club, also came through with impressive triumphs.

With Kenny Hardin tallying 18 points, the Farm five stopped the Moose team, 39 to 18, while the Cuemen turned in a 34 to 18 win over the Isaly Dairy outfit.

Four of the six players the Canfields employed collected at least 10 points apiece in establishing a new season team scoring mark.

George Bosko, former City league player, set the individual pace with 18 points, while Augustine added 15. Schaffer contributed 14, and Jim Heiser scored 13. Augustines, trailing by a 11 to 9 count at the end of the first period, broke loose with a 22-point bombardment in the second quarter to take a commanding lead. The Canfields were ahead 31 to 19, at the halfway mark, and 46 to 25, as play opened in the last frame.

Harden scored nine of the 17 field goals the Farm five made in winning its fourth game. Raemelton was leading 11-3 in the opening quarter, 17-5, at the half and 26-9 at the end of the third chapter.

The Billiards, led by Joe Wentz, were behind in the initial stanza, but spurted to a one-point lead before halftime. The Cuemen outscored their rivals, 12-1, after the intermission to hold a 26 to 14 advantage as the teams resumed play in the fourth quarter. Wentz scored nine points.

Satterlee Restaurant Club High In B Loop.

THE best individual series in the Commercial league was produced by Wayne Anthony of the Satterlee Restaurants, who collected a 584 total from steady games of 195, 199 and 190.

Anthony led the Satterlee club to the high team count of 2708, which enabled the restaurants to win two tilts from the Ringside cafe.

The Yuncker Sports were the only team to sweep a series last night. They took three from the Possum Run quintet. Matches were won with two victories by the Heilman Grocers, Kochheiser Sports, Southern hotel and Mansfield Printers.

Alter Forward Pass Penalty

NCCA Members Take Pressure Off Offense.

PALM SPRINGS—(INS)—Only a few slight changes in football rules for 1940 had been made today by the NCCA rules committee and one major alteration.

The major alteration takes a little pressure off the offense, calling for a reduction of the penalty "when a forward pass touches or is touched by an ineligible receiver on or behind the line of scrimmage." This will now call for the loss of a down.

But if the passer intentionally throws the ball into an ineligible man on or behind the line of scrimmage to save yardage, the penalty is 15 yards and a loss of a down.

In order to speed up the game, the rules committee voted to cut the time allowed for putting the ball into play from 30 to 25 seconds.

Cleats were ordered reduced from one-half inch to three-eighths of an inch in diameter with the point parallel with the base.

Coast Schools Admit Guilt of Offering 'Financial Inducements.'

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Pacific coast conference schools have been using high pressure methods in competition for prospective football players and have been offering "financial inducements to athletes.

Such was the announcement on file today by the conference itself, which has been meeting in Los Angeles. After digesting the two-million-word report of Edwin Atherton, former G-man, on current college abuses, the result of two years' investigation, the conference labeled the practices as "problems" and for the first time officially adjudged itself guilty of "the practices and abuses common to intercollegiate athletics in most parts of the country."

U. S. UPSETS SVELTE FORM OF 'BOOSTER' GIRLS AT RENO BARS

(By United Press)

RENO, Nev. — The night life girls of Reno, whose job it is to spread good cheer and hospitality to divorce-seekers and furnish a satin lining to gambling houses and cabarets, are taking on weight.

The sylph-like silhouettes of yesteryear's charm girls are disappearing with the change from iced tea to whisky drinking.

The booster, or "B" girl who drinks with the patrons for a percentage no longer gets the impotent "shot" of tea from a special bottle behind the bar, because the federal alcohol restrictions require all bottles to be the real thing, with tax stamp affixed and the bottle to be destroyed immediately it is emptied.

There are several general classifications of "After Dark" charmers in Reno: the "B" girl; the "shill," who sits at gambling tables and plays for the house, and the feminine gambling dealers, used in only a few of the lesser clubs.

The "B" girl receives one-half of all she drinks—that is, one drink, paid for by a patron at 25 cents, nets her 12½ cents. Four dollars is a good night's earnings for her. She also may receive tips.

The "shill," who gambles and gambles, intently watching the click and whirr of the roulette wheel, but never really plays "for keeps," receives a straight wage of 50 cents an hour

The woman dealers receive $5 per eight-hour shift, for throwing the dice or running a wheel.

Checkroom girls may earn as high as $60 a week during the winter in one of the better establishments, but in the summer their earnings are considerably less.

candidate for the vice presidential nomination in order to keep Postmaster General James A. Farley off the ticket.

This is the plan promoted by Thomas G. Corcoran, head of the New Deal's "brain trust." It follows nomination of Murphy for the supreme court to succeed the late Justice Pierce Butler and concurrent promotion of Jackson from the sanctuary of the solicitor generalship to the spotlight-catching post of attorney general. Both are certain of confirmation by the senate, but probably not before next week.

While the insiders cast Jackson for a political role, Murphy will be turning aside from politics, from the mad whirl of federal prosecutions, from the enforcement of law, to the nonpolitical, nonpartisan cloister of the nation's highest court. He goes sadly too.

To his final press conference as attorney general, he said:

"I am sad at leaving this desk and yet I am happy to take up the new work."

And he took himself completely out of the political picture—as he had denied any political ambitions as long ago as last June—by saying:

"My going to the court disqualifies me completely for political activity. I feel that the court is the great pulpit of the land and that a member of the court should never speak regarding partisan politics."

Murphy will leave a huge job behind him for Jackson to administer. He has investigations now going full blast or grand juries sitting or trials under way in Boston, New York, Connecticut, Atlantic City, Washington, Miami, New Orleans, Chicago, Hot Springs and Los Angeles. The range of alleged crimes, under inquiry, include income tax frauds, violations of civil liberties, spying, sabotage, white slave trading, political corruption, vote frauds and mail frauds.

Some of the biggest names in the nation are involved in these cases. They will provide Jackson with a tremendous platform on which to sell himself to the nation as a vigorous law enforcer—or, as the saying goes, to "out-dewey Dewey."

TRUCKER SUES

Asks $488 as Result of Crash in Which Driver Was Hurt.

Russell McNeely, 21 Raymond avenue, whose truck was involved in an accident on route 39 at Springmill Nov. 24 when Francis Leemaster, 29, of Shelby was seriously injured, filed a suit in common pleas court today for $488 to cover damages to his truck and loss of its use.

McNeely brought his action against the West Universal Dry Cleaning, Inc., Mansfield, owner of the truck which Leemaster was driving. Atty. H. G. Clark is counsel for McNeely.

The petition contends that because the driver (Leemaster) was driving at excessive speed he was unable to negotiate a curve and the truck crossed the center highway line and crashed into one driven by McNeely. Leemaster was not mentioned by name in the suit.

Leemaster suffered severe throat, face and head injuries in the crash and has had 14 blood transfusions at General hospital where he is confined. His windpipe was severed.

Driver Blamed for 5-Car Crash Loses License for Year

driver whose car figured in a five-car crash yesterday, lost his driving rights for one year, was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $250 in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alhohol.

He is Tom Swigart, R. D. 2, Mansfield, whom police said was the cause of a five-car accident on Newman street near Springmill yesterday afternoon.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended the jail sentence and $75 of the fine on condition that Swigart pay that amount to owner's of the other cars whose machines were damaged.

Damages were presented to the court this morning by Donald Kirkpatrick, 140 Sturges avenue, who said the estimated cost of repairs to his car was $80; Samuel Saraniti, 14 Howard street, who submitted a bill for ..60, and Robert Alexander, 68 North Adams street, $30.

James S. Young, 26, R. D. 3, Mansfield, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving his car without a taillight and was fined $2 and costs. He was arrested in Lexington last night by state highway patrolmen.

division office in Cleveland reported this afternoon that a blizzard was raging in Lake county and that routes 86 and 166 were closed. They said three inches of snow fell this morning and the blizzard was continuing unabated.

Napoleon, in northwestern Ohio, reported the lowest official reading in the state this morning—five below zero. Springfield had four below and Bucyrus two below. Cincinnati, with an official zero at 8 a. m. today had a drop of 23 degrees in seven hours.

The reading at Cleveland was nine above this morning, the city's lowest of the season. Zero was forecast by nightfall and Cincinnati prepared for 10 below.

Ohio was frozen at the northern and southern extremities and all of the state was buried under snow as the new sub-zero wave swept eastward. Ice was eight inches deep in Sandusky bay and river traffic was suspended on the Ohio river by thick ice.

For almost a week the mercury has been near zero over almost the entire state.

The cold extended over the entire middlewest, but an unusual condition saw the mercury drop lower in Ohio than at Duluth, Minn., usually one of the nation's frigid spots. It was two below this morning in Duluth while Ohio points reported readings of four and five below.

Williston, N. D., had 25 below zero, coldest in the nation. The reading at Chicago this morning was three below.

Backache A Memory Since Mansfield Man Took Vendol

Advises everyone needing a laxative or kidney diuretic to get Vendol at once. Says it's great.

"After getting such grand relief, there isn't a doubt in my mind as to what this grand medicine Vendol can do and I believe it will help everyone who gives it a chance," said Mr. George G. Butts of 809 Springmill street, Mansfield, a retired Street Car Motorman, who is known to thousands of local citizens, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"My troubles were caused by allowing myself to be constipated and also I needed a diuretic action on my kidneys, and this condition gave awful pains across my back and down through my legs.

"The pains were so bad sometimes that I felt I couldn't keep going if I didn't find relief. I tried different things but until I started on Vendol and the little Vendol tablets, nothing I tried helped much.

"In addition to these aches and pains, this constipated condition had me so that I never wanted to eat my meals because I knew I would feel distressed afterwards with gas in my stomach, sourness, cramps and palpitation, and worse yet, my nerves became so upset that I seldom got a restful night's sleep.

MR. GEORGE G. BUTTS

"It was lucky for me when I tried Vendol because it wasn't long, till this fine medicine gave the most satisfying relief from constipation, then, my aches, pains, stomach upsets and other troubles became all a memory and I truly feel better now than for many a day.

"My advice to everyone who is feeling like I used to is, to lose no time in getting Vendol."

Why not give Vendol a chance to help you, too? The Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main and 4th Sts., and will gladly explain all about it and advise you honestly whether or not he thinks it will help you. Vendol is sold by most all other leading druggists.

TIP TO BURGLARS

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — Thieves insist on breaking off the combinations on Girard high school safes with such regularity that signs have been placed on them asking burglars not to break the combinations because the safes are not locked. The school board pointed out that nothing of value is kept in the safes and that there really is no object in smashing the mechanism.

MARKET TURNS ERRATIC AFTER ACTIVE START

Traders Inclined to Await Clearer Signs of What Congress Plans to Do.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Early attempts to whip up a rally in today's stock market lacked steam and prices turned slightly irregular.

Dealings, moderately active at the start, slowed as the session proceeded.

Among resistant issues were Bethlehem Steel, American Can, General Electric and Union Carbide.

Lacking rising vigor were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Glenn Martin, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont and Southern Railway.

While reinvestment buying by those who established income tax losses last month again proved a stabilizing influence, the general run of traders seemed inclined to await clearer signs of what congress will do and how business will act over the next few months.

Selective improvement was witnessed in the bond department.

Helpful to market sentiment were week-end merchandising surveys disclosing the nation's retail spending was continuing at a high level.

Dun & Bradstreet estimated store sales this week, for the country as a whole, topped the comparable period last year by 4 to 10 per cent.

Holders of rubber company stocks noted opinions from tire makers that domestic consumption of rubber in 1940 would rise to some 600,000 tons from around 580,000 tons in 1939.

DECLARES NAZIS WILL LOSE WAR

Ex-German Sabotage Agent Believes They'll First Get U. S. Involved.

for that. I believe there will be tremendous naval warfare, coming after the spread of the war to Scandanavia, the Balkans and the middle east. To counteract reckless acts of submarine commanders, dominated by a fanatic desire to win a decoration and a reception from the Nazi fuehrer. I think the American naval forces will have to intervene.

"It is my deepest conviction that the war has been hopelessly and irretrievably lost for the Nazis. Of course it may take several years because the Nazis are such fanatics and have a tremendous organization designed to keep the masses under their spell."

Rintelen said he wanted to make it plain that although he came to Britain only shortly before the war his activities here did not mean that he was letting down his own country.

He said that he had put himself unreservedly at the service of the British government. After expressing his pride in having worked during the World war for the old imperial high command, he said that in "submitting a memorandum once in a while to government circles he felt that he was doing a great service to the German people by helping them get rid of the Nazis."

Why, Mr. Manville

Anne Bernie

A leap year proposal from one of his girl friends causes Tommy Manville, much-married asbestos heir, to seek a Garbo-like seclusion in New York. The apparently thwarted young lady is Anne Bernie, a chorine, who has had several dates with the romantic playboy.

Zippers Are Now Actually Applied To Human Body

HOUSTON, Tex.—(INS)—You've heard the old gag about the fellow who had so many operations the doctors put a zipper on him to save time—

Well, it isn't a gag any more.

Doctors attending the South Texas Medical Assembly in Houston were told about a new method of applying zippers to the abdomen of human beings for cases where repeated operations are necessary, as in stomach cancer.

The device used is similar to those in wearing apparel. It is rustless and can be left in place for as long as three weeks without ill effects. After that the tension is too great on the abdominal tissues.

The zipper is installed by making an incision over the cancerous area, bringing the edges of the incision to the outer skin flap, and then sewing the two together with the zipper in between. Whenever the doctor needs to give the affected tissue another treatment, he "unzips" the cavity walls and "zips" it back again when he's finished.

MEETING SET

BUCYRUS—Miss Mary Wiseman, county home demonstration agent, has extended an invitation to all women of the county to attend the county-wide meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 10, at Leesville school.

Mrs. Mary Gerlach of Ohio State university, Columbus, extension specialist in family relationships and child development, will speak on the topic "Living With Youth."

Special music will be offered by the county rural women's chorus under the direction of Mrs. Wallace Moore of Chatfield.

NEW STORY OF FAMILY TRIALS TOPS BOOK LIST

Novel Tells of Man, Adopted Children; Other Novels to Be Available.

Freda Lingstrom's new book, "Axel," heads the list of books to be released at the Mansfield Public library Saturday. Mrs. Lindstrom, who has traveled extensively on the Continent, displays her familiarity with the customs and manners of the various countries she has visited in her latest book, which tells of the story of an Englishman, Axel Wreford, who at the age of 45, decides to build himself a family

After adopting a ten-year-old girl and two older boys, this father of a synthetic family of three has his share of the tribulations of parenthood. His experiences make good reading, according to library officials.

Other books on the fiction list are "CAPITAL CITY," by Mari Sandoz, which strikes against many accepted middle-western middle-class prejudices, "REBIRTH OF VENKATA REDDI," by Pearl Dorr Longley, a book which describes the customs and religious ceremonies of the Telugu section of South India; "VICTORIAN HOUSE," Hewlett, "COFFIN FOR DIMITRIOS," Ambler; "RETURN TO DUST," Covert; "GREAT DAY," Seifert; "IMMORTAL EASE," Coyle, and "CLAUDIA," Franken.

Heading the non-fiction list is "MY LIFE," by Havelock Ellis, an intimate record of the thoughts and emotions as well as the career of the late philosopher and writer; "WORLD WITHOUT END," by Stoyan Pribichevich, a saga of southeastern Europe; "NEW DEMOCRACY AND THE NEW DESPOTISM," Charles E Merriam; "DECORATION IS FUN," Draper; "TO THE LOST WORLD," Zahl "SOMETIME—NEVER," Leighton; "BLACK FOLK; THEN AND NOW," DuBois; "HISTORY OF THE U. S. MARINE CORPS," Metcalf; "DIPLOMACY," Nicolson; "WALL STREET UNDER OATH," Pecora; "BIRDS OF THE PACIFIC STATES," Hoffman; "MAN'S GREAT ADVENTURE," revised edition by Pahlow; and "WE ARE FORTY AND WE DID GET JOBS," by Thompson and Wise.

Origin of the fire was undetermined It was stated that the person driving the car saw flames shoot from the side of the hood, and fearful that the gasoline tank might explode, stopped the machine, got out, and let it burn.

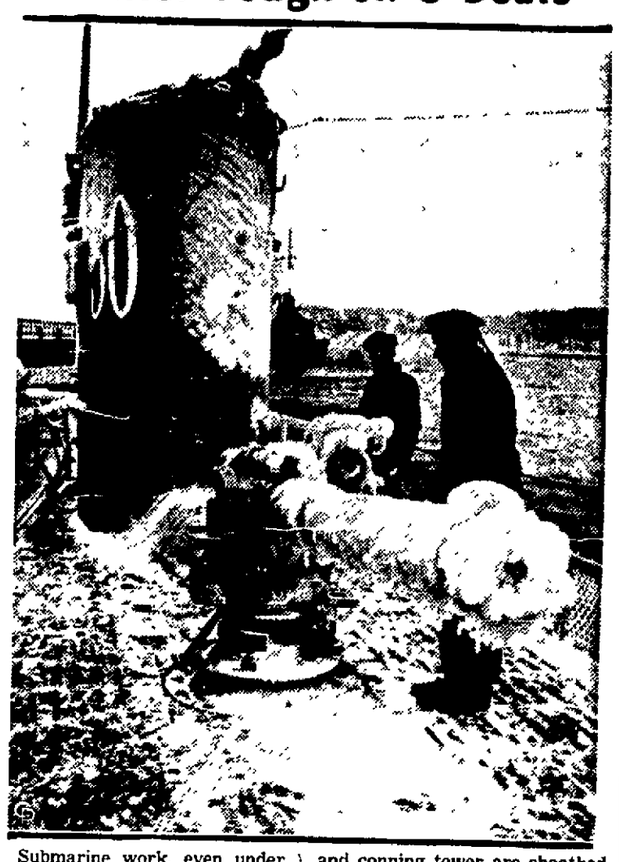
The automobile was destroyed with the exception of one rear tire.

PICK LEADERS

ASHLAND—Officers of the Bible Study club were elected here at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. B. Franklin Zercher

New club officers include: Mrs Morgan Minamyer, president; Mrs. D C. Rybolt, vice president; Mrs. J. E. Gates, secretary, and Miss Rosemary Murphy, treasurer.

Winter Tough on U-Boats



Submarine work, even under favorable conditions, isn't the most comfortable in the world. And in winter it is a job for only the most hardened of men who go to the sea in ships. This submarine has just returned to her base at Kiel, Germany, after a cruise in the Baltic. Deck, gun and conning tower are sheathed in ice.

It takes about eight egg whites to equal a cupful. Remember this when using up leftover egg whites in cooking. Store the whites, covered, in the refrigerator and they will keep for a week.

SURVEY GROUP HOLDS INCOME TREND DROPS

New England Commission Says Taxes Total 0.17 on Every Dollar.

(By United Press)

CONCORD, N. H.—Governmental debts are smothering private savings and unemployment is caused by the very measures taken to cure it, according to a five-man commission whose members include a wealthy Republican governor and two college presidents.

The commission, including Gov. Francis P. Murphy and Presidents Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth and Fred Engelhardt of the University of New Hampshire, applied to the nation their findings in a double-entry bookkeeping survey of New Hampshire, and concluded:

"That the people of the state (New Hampshire)—and undoubtedly the people of the nation—have no net savings, for individual savings are being smothered by governmental debts.

"That the business and agriculture are being conducted at a loss . . .

"That indirect taxes amount to at least 10.8 cents in every dollar . . . and direct taxes to 7.1 cents, or a total of 17.9 cents.

"That the application of double-entry bookkeeping to the whole economy shows the patent absurdity of 'creating purchasing power, through spending.' Townsend or other schemes.

"That through taxation, incomes are being distributed downwards—both the lower and the higher bracket incomes are decreasing."

Speaking for the commission which based its statements upon a survey for 1936, Samuel Crowther said that though New Hampshire folk saved $13,761,000 in that year, the state institutions of banking, business and government operated at a net loss of $17,750,000.

"Thus," he said, "the people, considered as a whole were poorer by $3,986,000 as result of the year's operation. That is, the people as a whole did not earn their living."

"There is reason to believe that a state or a nation is not ultimately bound by the same rules in its affairs as obtains in the affairs of individuals."

Contending that government cannot transcend the rules of simple arithmetic, the commission stated it is not conceivable that any method can be devised by which the citizens can share more than they collectively produce.

BETTER BUILT

BEATRICE, Neb.—(INS)—Automobiles are so well built nowadays that there's no longer any money in the repair business, opined C. M. Culver as he closed the DeLuxe Parts company which he organized 24 years ago.

"The motors run longer than they used to and there is less demand for the kind of work we built our business on," Culver commmented.

MT. GILEAD — Two Morrow county service organizations have passed resolutions objecting to plans proposed by the lakes and parks division of the conservation department to build a swimming pool at the state lakes here. Mt. Gilead Kiwanis club and the Cardington Rotary club have taken the action.

CHEST COLD MISERY

FIRST—rub throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime.

THEN—spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

RIGHT AWAY, VapoRub goes to work—loosens phlegm—eases muscular soreness or tightness—clears air passages—relieves coughing. And often by morning, most of the misery of the cold is gone.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 5, 1940

Trouble is so plentiful that it can be borrowed without giving security.

Whatever else may apply, there can be no "heat of battle" in Finland's sub-zero temperature.

Stalin is referred to by the Soviet press as "the sun of the world"—but from this distance he appears more like a dark cloud.

High Cost For Short Service

WITH this session of congress quite likely to adjourn in early June, the idea of spending from $20,000 to $25,000 to hold a special primary and election to fill the vacancy in this district impresses many as being a needless waste of money.

It has been suggested that a congressman to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Ashbrook could be elected in connection with the May 14 primaries.

If that were done the choice would be made only two or three weeks before probable adjournment date, which would be insufficient time for a new congressman to be of any real service. In any event the position will remain vacant for at least four months, during which most of the important work of the session will have been done, and there seems no good reason why the trouble and expense of a special primary and election should be assumed in order to have representation in the final few weeks.

Then too, awaiting the regular August primaries and the November election, and making the choice for a full two-year term, would give longer time for survey of the field, with a view to choosing the best person available for the position, and would obviate the necessity for April and May campaigns for nomination and election for the unexpired term, to be closely followed by campaigns for nomination in August and election in November for the regular term.

Following the death of Chester Bolton, congressman from the 22nd district, it had been the obvious intention of Governor Bricker to allow this vacancy to continue through without a special election. In view of the high cost of a special primary and election—and the few weeks of service involved—that would seem a wise and economical course, even with the second vacancy now existing.

Speaking of 'Glib Generalities'

EXPLANATION of President Roosevelt's complete reversal from his economy promises of 1932 is found in a few words contained in the budget message which he sent to congress yesterday.

In commenting on critics who have urged a balanced budget, Mr. Roosevelt said: "I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so, anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to balance the budget. It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences."

Even the most sincere admirers of President Roosevelt, and the most faithful adherents to his New Deal policies, must get a quiet chuckle out of his reference to "glib generalities" and his quip: "It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences."

Those who recall the campaign for election made by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932, when he was a candidate for first term can scarcely have forgotten his strong stressing of economy in federal expenditures and his promises to effect such economies.

Now he submits a budget which he avers has been trimmed to the lowest possible point but which still, in effect, proposes a deficit of around three billion dollars for the year ending July 1, 1941, keeping barely within the $45,000,000,000 statutory debt limit, so that this need not be disturbed until after election.

Also, instead of proposing a tax increase to meet the general deficit, he attempts to popularize the demand for more taxes by applying them specifically to greater costs of national defense.

In whatever ways Franklin D. Roosevelt may have failed, it is unlikely that any other American politician would dispute his right to top place as dispenser of "glib generalities" in such a convincing way that, according to Senator Borah, "he could recite an example in algebra and make it interesting."

But, as Mr. Roosevelt explains: "It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences."

Fifth Appointment to Supreme Court

APPOINTMENT of Frank Murphy to the United States Supreme Court has given to President Roosevelt what he had impatiently attempted to accomplish a couple of years ago through a court reorganization bill that was turned down by congress.

Five of the nine members of the Supreme Court are Roosevelt appointees, all having come within his second term, starting with Hugo Black in 1937; Stanley F. Reed in 1938; Felix Frankfurter and William O. Douglas in 1939, and Mr. Murphy at the beginning of 1940.

While standing of the legal caliber earlier deemed a prerequisite for membership on the Supreme Court bench, the earlier appointment of Hugo Black had a rather disillusioning effect as to qualifications required for this high judicial post and the appointment of Mr. Murphy will probably be confirmed by the senate without serious opposition of opposition.

Some Student Vagaries

WHAT college students think about this and that may not matter very much, because they're likely to change a lot of their views later. But some of the collective ideas expressed by the American Student Union at its recent convention in Madison, Wis., are rather surprising.

With all the information and entertainment now available in this country, with events in Europe fully and accurately reported than it has ever been anywhere, the students decide, by a vote of 322 to 20, that Russia should not be condemned for invading Finland. If that is rational judgment, then should any government ever be condemned for anything?

The boys and girls also condemn American loans, and the sale of American planes, to Finland for self-defense. This opinion at least harmonizes with the preceding one. But do those students mean to argue that the Finlanders are wicked in defending their country against Russian aggression, and that in the world's present situation one democracy should not help another by means short of war?

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—We have it on reliable authority that the British and French will be extraordinarily pleased if we will pledge ourselves to keep German raiders out of the western Atlantic. They will be glad to spend their time keeping the rest of the Atlantic free of them.

The same authority assures us that unless we guarantee that we will keep the Germans from committing war-like acts in these waters, the British will insist on the right to do it, just as they always have in past wars with Germany.

That, in a nutshell, is the reply almost certain to be made by the British to any blanket proposal of the 21 American republics that our neutrality zone be kept free of such dramatic sea battles as the one with the Graf Spee.

Break for the British.

OF COURSE, the British would want us to broaden the definition of "war-like acts" to include more things than actual battles. We would be asked, for instance, to keep German surface or undersea raiders from molesting British or French merchant ships within the neutrality zone.

That would be a nice order. It would vastly widen the area in which British merchant ships could operate in safety before they had to begin that perilous dash through the real belligerent zones on the European side. With that kind of guarantee, there might have been no battle between the Graf Spee and the British cruisers.

Likely, also, the British would expect us to prohibit resupplying of German ships within the neutrality zone.

With those two things assured, the British navy would have many fine ships free to patrol the rest of the Atlantic and the North Sea. Moreover, there are no grounds upon which the American nations could act to prevent British cruisers from refueling within the neutrality zone. Jamaica and several other important little spots are entitled to shelter and refuel British ships.

Some Help to Germany.

GERMANY, too, might reap some benefit from the show, although in proportion far less than the British and French. There are now 50 or more German freighters stalled in American ports. They hardly dare move out of the three-mile limit because of patroling British cruisers.

With a 300-mile zone of safe water in which to operate, they could choose their own time and place from which to start the frenzied dash to home.

German ships would be particularly discommoded by the tentative suggestion put forward that any belligerent ships which committed a war-like act in American waters would be denied use of American ports for any purpose. The fewer havens there are for German ships in America, the better the British will like it. They have painstakingly refused to set examples themselves which could later be used as precedents for German demands.

IT'S A PASS!

Garner-McNutt Deadlock Likely

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — While mass opinion in Washington has been drifting rapidly to the view that President Roosevelt will not seek a third term, the logic indicating that he will do so appears even stronger than it was when so many of those who now think he will retire thought he would be renominated.

Leaving opinion aside, what is the logic?

In the first place, if Roosevelt should announce any time between now and the early presidential primaries that he would not be a candidate, who would have the edge? Most politicians with no ax to grind in this battle will tell you confidentially that they don't think John Nance Garner could be beaten. The next largest bloc of competent opinion will tell you Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana. A still smaller bloc will say that Garner and McNutt are the two leaders, but that a compromise will be necessary, and that this will result in any one of various candidates being nominated.

HIGH among these compromise candidates are Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Almost nobody gives Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace a chance, regardless of convention deadlock situations. But it is rather interesting that if for any reason Garner should fail to make the grade, the Texas delegation, which is a sizable one, would be likely to swing to Jesse H. Jones. The Houston banker and publisher, incidentally, has a lot of friends through the rank and file of Democratic workers, and his nomination would not cause much distress on Capitol Hill.

Leaving Wallace out, for his chances do not merit consideration, there are only two names in this five which most observers here think F. D. R. could approve. These are McNutt and Hull, and there is no assurance whatever that he would be pleased with the nomination of McNutt. Conviction here is that he would never stand for Garner, and his dislike for Wheeler is very deep-seated. He regards Jesse Jones as a useful tool in the government—he inherited him from President Hoover—but as an authentic symbol of the old order.

McNutt, the one man on the list who would seem to have both a really good chance for the nomination and at the same time a chance for Roosevelt's blessing, is up against a terrific cross fire from the two extreme wings of the Democratic party, calculated to ruin him for the nomination, and to prevent Roosevelt's blessing.

FROM the left wingers is coming a perfect barrage against the favorite son of Indiana. Harold L. Ickes has been outspoken about it. He is one of the few left wingers who likes to talk for publication, but in private conversations many of them are denouncing McNutt on every occasion, and it is a certainty that they are not leaving a stone unturned to prejudice Roosevelt against him.

The other extreme wing, the practical political group, is influenced very considerably by Postmaster General James A. Farley, who makes no bones of his dislike for McNutt. Moreover Farley makes the argument that appeals more to the practical politicians, the men who will control delegates, than almost any other—he insists you just cannot depend on the Indiana leader.

Bearing in mind the sort of thing that settles convention fights — promises of everything from cabinet and diplomatic posts down—it will be seen that the Farley enmity is cutting heavily into McNutt's chances for convention strategy.

All of which leaves us with the probability, at least, that Roosevelt will be confronted with a situation where he will either have to take the nomination himself, or see it go to a man he cannot trust to carry on his policies.

Jackson Day

—By JEAN NEWTON

January 8th is Jackson Day.

Legal holiday in Louisiana, it is observed nationally by the Democrats by the holding of political rallies and banquets.

Does Jackson Day commemorate the birthday of Andrew Jackson?

It does not.

Known also as Old Hickory's Day, Jackson Day is the anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans, last engagement of the War of 1812, fought on January 8, 1815—three weeks after the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States had been signed at Ghent, the news of which did not reach here till too late.

Andrew Jackson's spectacular victory over the British in this final fight brought him national fame, made him a country-wide hero and became a political foundation of such strength that it led to his becoming president.

Listen, World!

You Build Your Own Personality.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT ARE YOU? What is this thing we call the human spirit? What is personality?

Is it a chemical reaction? A physical phenomenon? Are you the result of your glands—the sum total of your flesh, hair, toenails, teeth, blood and bone? Or is the real YOU something much bigger and better—and less perishable?

Long years ago some wise men conceived a curious theory concerning you. They decided that you are much larger than you think you are. You think of yourself as inhabiting a certain body, living in a certain place, bearing a certain name, having certain responsibilities, relationships, thoughts and emotions. That, you believe, is your life.

But these wise men believed that your life and your spirit went much further than that. That, they said, was merely your CONSCIOUS SELF. Actually, only the core of yourself. Your real self stretched far beyond your body—was aware of things which lay entirely outside the comprehension of your body.

Often you know that someone has come into the room. You haven't seen them come. You didn't hear them. Then how do you know they are there? Through that wider self which stretches, ghost-like but keenly alive, outside the body, the wise men decided.

A strange and fascinating theory. Is it true? Nobody knows. But this much is certainly true. We CAN, if we wish, have a wider existence than that which is confined within our personal experience. We can have as wide a self as we wish to build.

We are not born with our characters—we accumulate and create them. We build character or personality as we build a house or a business - bit by bit . . . using contacts, experiences, impressions — instead of bricks and steel stocks, bonds and material assets.

What kind of experiences? Any kind. EVERY kind. The wider the range of your contacts and experiences, the more elastic and colorful your personality and the greater your popularity. For the more you know of life, through your own ups-and-downs the more you'll be able to enter into, understand and influence other lives.

There is nothing more greatly desired than a charming and compelling personality. There is almost no limit to the power of a person who possesses such a personality. And the person without personality suffers endless humiliation and bitter resentment.

Yet if you'll study "colorless" persons you'll soon see why they are that way. Their lives are lack-luster and limited because they are too cowardly or conceited to accept those challenges and criticisms which would mature them and make their lives dramatic.

They can't stand rebuffs, losses, disappointments and shocks which inevitably come to those who live abundantly. And so they huddle within the safety and comfort of their pretty prejudices, their tiresome mannerisms—and then wonder why others are not drawn to share their stale isolation.

We like those who enlarge our lives—we seek out those who add color and flavor to existence. That is the secret of popularity. But you can't give color unless you have accumulated it yourself. You can't enlarge the other fellow's life until you've had the courage to enlarge your own.

You'd like to be popular? Nothing's holding you—expect yourself. If you want popularity, the makings are all around you. But can you, will you, take them?

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—While a large part of Washington was tooting horns in the night clubs, the president and his family celebrated New Year eve pondering matters of social significance. The height of frivolity was reached when the family partook of an egg-nog at midnight, but for two hours before that they were engrossed in two social problems: European refugees and the shortage of hospitals in the United States.

Sistie, oldest Roosevelt grandchild, must have been disappointed. She had made her mother, Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, promise to waken her in time to see the New Year come in. And Anna, true to her promise, went upstairs and shook the child into consciousness. But when she came down from her third floor bedroom, she found the party something less than gay.

There was none of that New Year jubilation that Sistie had seen pictured in the papers. No men wore funny paper hats and no women climbed up on the table.

The party had been seeing a moving picture of Paul de Kruif's book on maternity, with heavy emphasis on the diseases of childbirth in the slums.

The president was deeply moved. Afterward, he remarked that the picture was most revealing, but that it covered only the urban side of the problem, making no mention of hospital shortage in rural areas.

Before viewing the picture, the Roosevelts had listened to monologist Cornelia Stabler Gillam, who gave a dramatic interpretation of a non-Aryan refugee woman appearing before a Friends (Quaker) hostel in Vienna begging assistance to come to America. The president pronounced it "bully," but it was certainly not gay.

When Sistie came in, the monologue and the picture were finished, and her grandfather was raising his glass of egg-nog for a toast to 1940, and another to the U. S. A. Then Major Henry Hooker, Roosevelt's old law partner, toasted the president, and the president's mother kissed him.

Thus came the New Year to the White House.

FDR Spokesmen.

THE Jackson Day dinner speech to watch this week-end is the one Silicitor General Bob Jackson will make in Cleveland.

He's going to do Roosevelt's political talking for that always important political day. The president himself will avoid politics, and devote his speech chiefly to international problems. It will be Jackson who will sound the New Deal tocsin and lay down the New Deal's campaign objectives.

Selection of Jackson as the keynoter and of Cleveland as the place are both significant.

It won't be formally announced, but Roosevelt's political talking for some time will be done through two inner circlers. One is Harold Ickes and the other Bob Jackson, soon to be elevated to full cabinet rank as attorney general. Each will do a particular job.

Ickes, a slash-bang fighter, will be the shock trooper who will work out on partisan foes. Jackson, a polished rapier artist, will devote his talents to foes within his own party. In other words, Ickes will do Roosevelt's talking largely to Republicans and Jackson principally to Democrats.

That's why he was sent to Cleveland. First, it's in the middle west, a crucial battleground in this year's momentous elections. Second, the political cauldron already is sizzling in Ohio. Garnerites, McNutt-crackers, and Farley fans are actively trying to capture the state's 52 delegates—one of the biggest blocs in the convention.

It's a White House secret, but a number of Ohio Democratic county chairmen have been beseeching the president to allow his name to be used in the Ohio presidential primary May 14. The local boys are cold to all the would-be white hopes, don't think they can get anywhere against the GOP, and want Roosevelt again.

So far they've got no answer, but Jackson's speech may supply it.

Miss Perkins' Spectacles.

THE next time Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins shows up at a certain Washington radio station without her glasses they'll know just what to do.

She dashed into the studio a few minutes before she was to go on the air, with the agitated announcement that she had just broken a lens and had to have another pair of glasses to read her manuscript.

"What will we do?" cried the studio director. "It's too late to send out for any."

"Maybe I can use the glasses of someone around here," suggested Miss Perkins.

A flying squad was dispatched to snatch the glasses off the faces of everyone in the studio, and soon was back with half a dozen. But after trying them all, Miss Perkins shook her head disconsolately.

"They won't do," she sighed. "They are all too fancy for me. You see, I buy my glasses in the five and ten."

Germans Interned.

ONE problem in the path of sending the German sailors from the scuttled S. S. Columbus back to Germany is that of getting them past the British blockade.

Attorney General Murphy proposes to send the seamen from Ellis Island direct to Hamburg. However, any American ship carrying them would be stopped on the high seas and the German sailors would be removed. Only way to get around the blockade is to send them on an army transport or on a U. S. merchant ship which has been made a naval auxiliary and flies the U. S. naval flag.

The French and British have pulled in a considerable number of Germans from American and Italian boats on the high seas or at Gibraltar. There have been many more such incidents than the few reported.

In a difficult predicament are a group of German sailors employed by the Standard Oil company to operate their tankers. These men have been living in New York hotels, many of them in the Hotel Flanders, where they were paid $2.50 a day by Standard Oil plus their keep.

Not long ago some of them tried to go back to Germany on an Italian ship but were taken off by the British. Even more recently a number left for San Francisco, where they planned to take a Japanese liner to Vladivostok and then make the long trip across Siberia and Russia in order to reach Germany.

Wood Cutters

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THESE wintry days the farmers spend some very heavy hours in the woods. It is timely fuel for every rural household, and what is a pleasanter task than to shoulder ax and saw and start up to the timber lot? Just today I watched two sturdy farmers leave their home and go up into the woods, one of them with a long springy crosscut waving above his shoulder at every step, the other with a bright, keen bladed pole ax, a sledge, and with steel wedges weighting his pockets. It was cold for I heard the metallic ring of frozen snow beneath their feet. Their breath showed on the snappy frosty air like little puffs of steam.

When I returned an hour later high upon the summit of the ridge I saw a thin column of blue smoke rise slowly and heard the crackling of brush. The steady stroke of the ax rang out across the valley and soon the rhythmic movements of the saw made softer sounds as it filed down through the fallen trunk.

Drawing near I saw the fine-grained dust fall from the sharpened teeth with every stroke. They cut the log in lengths of six to eight feet, then split it into four or six pieces depending on the diameter of the stuck. One heavy, irregular log had numerous knots. The two men discussed the reasonable method of attack, then sank a wedge in what they believed was a vulnerable spot, and another a little farther back along the widening crack.

The heavy sledge clanked on the round top of the wedge which moved slowly down through the wood accompanied by splitting, crackling sounds. It took a third wedge, applied more than half way to the end before the tightly knit crotches split in two. One man pressed the handle of the sledge into the rift to spread it wider, while the other cut the tough, twisted slivers with the ax until the two halves rolled apart. The two men smiled a hint of satisfaction at each other, laid down their tools and mopped their ruddy faces with bandanas. I piled some brush upon the waning fire and kindled it to roaring flames again, remarking that old adage "Who cuts his own wood warms himself twice."

"That's puttin' it too light," one man declared. "When a body splits a knotty one like this he warms himself four or five times over. John here allus remembers each piece he cuts, and the work it took to split it fine when he needs the fire."

"I do, that ain't no lie," John said. "These knotty pieces are some like a puzzle. A fellow'd look weak if he couldn't work 'em up."

THEATERS

ONE of Hollywood's most famous figures is back after three years of making movies in Europe . . . Erich Von Stroheim, who has been directing and starring in films in France, returned to essay a featured role with Zorina in "I Was An Adventuress" . . . Alice Faye, declared to have one of the best natural and untrained voices on the screen, gained her big stage chance when she recorded a song on a record at a cost of $1 and sent the record to orchestra leader Rudy Vallee. He liked the voice and gave her a job . . . Jane Withers found homes for 35 homeless dogs at the Los Angeles S. P. C. A. small animal shelter recently, when she held a public "auction." She paid for most of the purchases herself.

"Hunchback" at Ohio.

A picture which movie-goers have been anxiously awaiting comes to the Ohio theater Saturday with Charles Laughton in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Laughton portrays the title role which Lon Chaney immortalized a number of years ago. The picture starts with the matinee showing tomorrow. A midnight show will be presented at 11:30 p. m. Laughton is supported by Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Maureen O'Hara and Edmond O'Brien. Bobby Breen in "Escape to Paradise" is being shown at the Ohio theater today.

Garbo In "Ninotchka"

"Ninotchka," which brings a new Garbo to the screen, is a sophisticated comedy which gives the Swedish star her first opportunity for smart comedy which she has long wished. Melvyn Douglas who was Garbo's leading man in "As You Desire me," plays opposite her for the second time. Bela Lugosi has a prominent role, as has Ina Claire. The picture opens Saturday for a four-day run at the Madison theater. Also on the program will be Victor McLaglen and Jackie Cooper in "The Big Guy." Jack Holt in "Fugitive At Large" is showing today.

Western At Ritz

Bob Steele in "Trusted Outlaw," a western thriller, opens at the Ritz today for a two-day showing. Also on the bill is "Hero For a Day," with a cast including Anita Louise, Dick Foran, Charley Grapewin, Berton Churchill and Emma Dunn. The story concerns the efforts of a sports hero of 30 years ago (Grapewin) to avert the disaster which threatens a strong-headed college favorite of today. Foran, who was once a member of the Princeton university eleven, shares romantic honors with Anita Louise.

Park Has Gene Autry

Gene Autry's new adventures bring him into the middle of a milk price war in "Colorado Sunset," which is being shown today and Saturday at the Park theater. In his latest picture, Gene and the boys find themselves stymied time and again by a villainous "protective" association. They proceed to take things into their own hands and stage a circus campaign to elect Gene as sheriff and succeed. With the law in his own hands he goes into action. The other picture on the double-feature bill is Allan Lane, Linda Hayes and Robert Barrat co-featured in "Conspiracy."

Majestic's Program.

"Legion of the Lawless," which is being shown at the Majestic theater today and Saturday, presents a hitherto unused theme in outdoor Western drama. It deals with a Vigilante organization, which was dedicated to the maintenance of justice and order but has become an instrument wielded for oppression. Into such a condition comes George O'Brien, as a young lawyer who sets himself to bring about law and order—though he must have recourse to his six-guns when his law books are brushed aside. Lew Ayres and Lana Turner in "These Glamour Girls," rounds out the program.

SHOWS BALANCE

County Ends Year With $4,400 in General Fund.

Richland county finished the year with a "balance" of $4,400 in its general fund, the financial report of Auditor Norman L. Wolfe showed today. The auditor added, however, that several small bills were carried over into 1940.

General fund expenditures during December amounted to $27,727, about $9,000 more than the receipts, the report showed. A $13,000 balance at the first of the month, however, saved the county from finishing the year "in the red."

The auditor's report listed $106,000 in undivided personal tax receipts and $2,641 in the county relief fund Jan. 1.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The Children's room has an opportunity this week to display a book of especial interest to the community. It's author, Mrs. Mildred Foulke Meese, is the daughter of Rev. R. L. Foulke of the Central Methodist church of this city. Mrs. Meese makes her home in Buffalo, N. Y. This is her first full-length novel but she is the author of a number of successful short stories.

THE WAGON TO THE STAR, by Mildred Foulke Meese—Mary Castens lived in an orphanage in her childhood. There she found a real home and she learned to love the younger boys and girls whom she helped to care for. Because she was dependable and ambitious she was allowed to work for her board and finish high school in a distant city where she learned to make friends and to balance high scholastic standing with the goodwill of her associates. At this school Mary's fine singing voice was discovered and a musical career was open to her, but she turned it away in favor of a greater ambition. The star to which she wished to hitch her wagon was the mastery of a surgeon's skill.

This is a school story of unusual merit for junior and senior high school girls.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

"Doesn't he have a mother?" she asked Bill when they left the child's room.

"Divorced."

"Poor little thing," she said. She'd completely forgotten the bell that had rung in her memory the first time she had heard Sonny Parson's name. Most of the private cases who came to Park-Plaza were known as Sonny or Junior.

Bill said, "You better quit here for the day. With the big show going on at Willoughby house tonight, you'll need all your energy."

"I'm going right away," she said, slipping a long coat on over her white dress that was like a uniform. "My car's at the door. I'm going to catch a cat-nap this afternoon."

Bill didn't say anything about his news. She thought he was going to tell her for a moment in which he looked at her silently; but he said nothing and she left him.

Her car was parked almost immediately before the entrance. She came out of the door looking for it, and was about to open the door when a woman came up silently behind her and caught her arm.

She turned to face a blond girl, expensively dressed, but with a face so haggard it was shocking. There was something in the swollen features and tear-streaked cheeks that was vaguely familiar to Fabienne, but she couldn't remember who this strange woman was, clinging to her desperately.

"Fabienne!" she said hoarsely, "I've got to talk to you. Don't you remember me? I'm Chris."

Christine Parsons! Suddenly Fabienne remembered that this little bell in her memory. This was Sonny Parsons' mother! This sick, desperate woman had been the beautiful Christine Mayhew, at whose wedding Fabienne had been a bridesmaid five years before. This woman who was saying, "Fabienne, you're a nurse here. You'll have to help me! If you don't, I'm going to kill myself!"

THE DOORMAN was interestedly viewing the tableau beside Miss Seymour's car. Fortunately, neither he, nor the two taxi drivers lounging near the building heard Christine Parsons' passionate statement that she was going to kill herself.

Fabienne said, "Get in my car, Christine. We'll go somewhere and talk."

The distracted girl, who was near collapse, as Fabienne could see, got in.

Fabienne pressed her foot on the starter. The engine wouldn't turn over. She tried again and again. Finally, Lewis, the doorman, came over. "Anything wrong?" he asked, putting his head in the car, giving Christine a long look.

Fabienne was furious. She said, "No, thanks, Lewis. It often does this. I'm taking this lady home," she added, so that Lewis would have no suspicions, as Fabienne had, that Christine was not mentally balanced. "She's the mother of one of our little patients who is leaving shortly."

Fortunately, at that moment, the engine did turn over and she moved the car away quickly. Also, fortunately, though she did not realize it then, it was a good thing she had made that little speech. Lewis was on duty later that night.

She opened the window to let the refreshing air blow in for her passenger. "Don't try to talk now, Chris. I'm going to take you down to my apartment. We can talk there alone. There won't be anyone at home until much later."

Christine's teeth were chattering, but it was not with cold for all that the day was sharp and windy and the breeze from the river, as they sped south on the East River drive, cut like needles and whipped the refuse that littered the streets across the windshield.

A fine cat nap she'd get now, Fabienne thought ruefully. The girl beside her needed advice and a bromide and, more than that, Fabienne doubted she could do without aid. Chris had talked like a mad woman. She knew some of the girl's story, having heard it from one friend or another in the crowd in which she and Chris once moved. She wondered what had brought her to this state.

These things she was thinking as she piloted the car west on Fifty-seventh street and turned it's nose south on Park avenue.

Chris, herself, was the daughter of divorced parents. Sweet, pretty to the point of beauty the way that fragile blondes with baby faces sometimes are, there was always a look of being buffeted round during those girlhood days when Fabienne had known her. Small wonder, Fabienne thought, the way that Chris was put in one school after another, only to be yanked out by whichever parent had a rare impulse to be parental and enjoy the company of his or her bewildered child.

"Am I driving too fast?" she asked Chris.

Chris shook her head without breaking the fixed stare in her eyes.

Fabienne was remembering another automobile ride she had shared with Chris on an October night more than five years ago. The rolling hills of Maryland had been bathed in gold by the Harvest moon and Chris' young face—she was only a little more than 18 then—lifted to the moon, had been touched with wistful beauty, as if only the heavens above her could know the treasure in her heart.

That was the night that Fabienne and Roger Montgomery drove Chris and Larry Parsons to Elkton and stood with them before the justice who married them.

It was the night of the harvest ball at the Hartford County Hunt club, and Larry'd cut in on Fabienne, saying, "Come out to the garden. Chris wants to talk to you. We've decided to get married tonight."

Fabienne had gone with him. The orchestra, she remembered, was playing "Lullabye of Broadway."

"Are you sure about this, Chris?" Fabienne had said to the excited girl.

"Sure, for the first time in my life," Chris answered. "Someday you'll fall in love and you'll KNOW it's forever. Larry and I have known it since the first day we met."

"Then why don't you wait and have a real wedding?"

"A wedding with tulle and an organ wouldn't make it any more real, Fab. Besides, Larry's parents will want him to wait. He's only 20. They—they don't approve of my parents. They think they're too gay and that I'll turn out that way. But if we get married, they can't annul it. We simply won't let them. We'll prove to them that they're wrong."

Fabienne turned west again at Thirty-eighth street. The girl beside her was lost in a frozen, rumbed silence as Fabienne's stream of memory flowed on.

The senior Parsons had raised a terrific rumpus over the marriage. But Larry's 21st birthday was only a few months off and he had sworn he'd remarry Chris if they were separated. Fabienne remembered wondering if he would. He was very much in love with Chris, but he was a weak sort of boy. In any event, the threatened annulment had not come off and Larry and Chris had moved to the west coast. Fabienne had heard they had a baby.

Later she had heard other things — unhappy things— that Larry was drinking and Chris had turned out "pretty gay." She had read of the divorce.

She would soon know the rest of the story.

In her own apartment she gave Chris a bromide that stilled the trembling and made her coherent.

"Begin at the beginning," she invited.

"My baby is at the Park-Plaza," Chris began.

"I know. We'll come to that later."

"Oh, Fabienne, you've never had a baby and you don't know what I'm suffering. You've got to help me!"

"I'll try. Where's Larry?"

"In Europe. He'd help me if he were here, but he isn't and it's all his family's fault."

"Please," Fab urged. "The beginning, Chris."

"It started the day we were married. His family didn't want him to marry me, but we were happy. Larry adored Sonny. We didn't have much money. Then all of a sudden his parents gave him a big allowance, sent polo ponies out and all that sort of thing. We got into a pretty fast crowd and Larry started drinking. We didn't like it, but we were only kids and we got caught in it. Then I began cutting up because I wanted to play along with Larry, do the things he did, be a good sport. It was considered smart to have dates with other people's husbands and wives—and we did. We did most of the things kids did in the flaming youth manner. I take plenty of blame for that. But I didn't know it was all a plant."

"A plant?" Fabienne asked.

"Larry's father deliberately led us on. They gave me long enough rope to hang myself with, and I did. Then, when Sonny was sick one time, he and Mrs. Parsons took him to Europe for his health. The next thing I knew they had sent for Larry. I told him to go! Three months later, Larry divorced me in Paris. I tried to fight the suit, but it was all too hideous. I've never seen Sonny from that day until I came to the hospital two weeks ago!"

Fabienne felt a chill run along her veins as she listened.

"After the divorce, Larry wrote me that he still loved me and was coming back. Then he was in an air crash. He—he didn't come back to America."

There were no sobs in her voice, only a dreadful hopelessness, and great tears rolled out of her eyes and splashed on her silken lap.

"I've cabled him, Fabienne, but he won't be here until after his father has got Sonny out of the hospital and away again where I can't get him. . . . I'M GOING TO KIDNAP HIM."

"No! No!" Fabienne said.

"I'm going to kidnap him and you're going to help me," the other girl said quietly, with her eyes fixed in an hypnotic gaze on Fabienne.

EMPIRE STATE JOB PUSH AIDS MEN OVER 40

'Rochester Plan' Fixes Ratio for Younger, Older Workers Among 35,000.

(By United Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—More than 1,400 New York industries employing approximately 600,000 persons have subscribed to the "Rochester plan," designed to protect middle-aged workers by maintaining a fair balance between old and young employes.

Republican Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth of Geneseo, chairman of a legislative committee studying alleged job discrimination against the "man over 40," announced adoption of the plan by Associated Industries, Inc. The group represents 1,456 business concerns, and is considered by many to represent New York industry as a whole.

The hiring formula was developed through the committee's study and was adopted by 36 Rochester industries in October. It became known as the Rochester plan because it incorporated findings of local industries as applied to 35,000 employes in this city.

Chief feature of the plan is the maintenance in industry of a ratio between workers over and under 40 years of age, approximately the ratio of such employables in the community.

A program of restraining and reassignment of older workers to suitable jobs also is provided. In reducing forces, consideration would be given to the same factors as in hiring, plus comparative length of service.

"I feel sure that the example set by this highly representative group of New York state employers will prove an inspiration to industry, not only throughout New York state but the entire country as well," Wadsworth said.

Magnesium Now New Product of Atlantic Ocean

LONDON—(INS)—British scientists have been successful in extracting magnesium from the Atlantic Ocean.

This light-weight metal, invaluable in the construction of vital parts of airplane engines, was produced from sea water on the west coast of Britain.

Following experimental extraction, a complete plant is being erected and full-scale production is expected to commence in the new year.

Lightest of all commercial metals, British production of magnesium formerly was only one-quarter that of Germany.

In conjunction with aluminum, it is used in the castings of high-performance engines and is an essential part of incendiary bombs and shells.

ALL OVER TOWN TODAY, women are saying, "Good-bye to slow-poke soaps . . . good-bye to stirring up suds in hot water." Yes—and the most glorious thrill of all, women can say, "Good-bye to washed-out colors, faded in hot water!" "Good-bye to shrunken woolens ruined by hot water and rubbing."

With new Ivory Snow here, it's easy to wash fine things the way washing experts say is safe—in cool water! Ivory Snow bursts into suds in 3 seconds at a safe, cool temperature! So easy now to keep even difficult washables—things like satin negligees, crepe blouses, knitted woolen dresses—looking lovely through washing after washing!

So try Ivory Snow—you'll marvel! It's a brand new kind of soap—newer than flakes—newer than powders! You'll hardly believe your eyes when you see Ivory Snow burst into suds in cool water—in only 3 seconds' time! Good lively suds—full of Ivory purity!

No Fading from Hot Suds

What are the greatest risks in washing fine silks and woolens? "Hot water . . . impure soap . . . rubbing!" washing experts tell you. Hot water often makes colors run or fade. Hot water tends to shrink woolens. Nice things are either ruined or robbed of their fresh pretty colors. Then all the pleasure of wearing them is gone.

So avoid hot water—avoid slow-dissolving soaps that tempt you to use hot water! With this new Ivory Snow, you can use just cool water, and get suds in three seconds! Think of the time saved! Think of the safety—for all your nice washable silks, rayons and woolens!

Keep that Stocking Bill Down!

Swish stockings out every night with new Ivory Snow! It doesn't matter whether the water is only lukewarm—or even cool. Don't worry! You'll get those "three-second suds" with Ivory Snow. It's easy as pie to give them the nightly sudsing that's all-important in keeping the silk of your stockings fresh and strong. And Ivory Snow is made by the Ivory Soap people—it's pure! You're giving your stockings double-protection—the protection of cool suds and pure suds. Longer life for your stockings means money toward something else you want to buy!

Keep Baby Clothes Soft and Cozy

Keep baby comfortable in little bands and shirts and sweaters that keep their softness because they're gently washed in cool Ivory Snow suds. And since Ivory Snow is pure—just like Ivory Soap—it leaves no strong deposits on baby garments to irritate that tender little skin.

Rich Suds Mean Economy

You get so much suds—such rich suds—with just a little Ivory Snow! No wonder women say Ivory Snow is economical to use. Actually, you'll find you can give your clothes the protection of this gentle, cool-water soap—you can save time with these speedy "3-second suds"—for no more than it costs you to use old-fashioned fine-fabrics soaps.

Try New Ivory Snow Today

You'll see new Ivory Snow today in your store in a blue-and-white box. Try it in both your bathroom and laundry. See why other women say, "It's fast. It's safe. It's wonderful!"

Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute

Safety Wool keeps its soft warm fluffiness so long—when it's gently washed in cool pure suds of Ivory Snow. Good news for sweaters, blankets, baby clothes, wool hose—they all cost plenty of money, but Ivory Snow protection costs mighty little.

Speed When you're sleepy and tired at night, bed looks mighty good. Who wants to wash out stockings the slow-poke way? Don't you do it! Make it snappy with new Ivory Snow. 3 seconds from box to suds! Even in cool water! What an easy way to help keep stockings fresh, strong, slim-fitting.

Protection Pretty feminine undies—delicate silks and colors need the protection of cool water. For water that's too hot may fade the color right out! No danger now, though—snow-banks of Ivory Snow suds in cool water help you keep colors bright!

Pure Here's the newest member of the Ivory Soap family. It's the new Ivory Snow. Yes, it's the new cool-water form of Ivory Soap. It's new in speed... bursts into suds in three seconds. And it's amazing in performance... gives rich suds even in cool water. But it keeps that famous Ivory purity which means gentle care for all your fine washables.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 6.

A lively and joyous day, in which the social, romantic and affectional interests seem to obliterate all other engagements, is forecast. Courtship, marriage or other forms of pleasurable pastimes are on the tapis. But there is danger of overdoing, through impetuosity, extravagance and excessive indulgence in many forms. It might be well to take heed of warnings from elders.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of much personal happiness and joy, with romance, adventure, much festivity and celebration associated with engagements or marriage. There are signs of excessive indulgence and extravagance, in which the funds as well as personal energies may be subjected to regrettable outlay. Elders stand by with wise advice.

A child born on this day may be extremely lively, active, ardent and enthusiastic, especially in its personal life, in which extravagance and indulgence abound.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

But she did not wait for the "whitewashing" speech I was mentally preparing. Instead, she rushed into explanation of what she had just said.

"There is no royal family in Europe so proud and haughty as the one to which Philip's father and his uncle belonged," she said. "Their pride was almost a disease with them. When Philip's pride was crucified by the knowledge of the disgrace which shadowed his birth, it was not killed but mutilated and turned into strange channels. He could not bear the thought that any other disgrace should ever come to his name, and I can see how his very soul was tortured when he thought that his son had failed him. But Noel must have been cleared or his father never would have forgiven him."

Was Cleared of Charge.

"He was," I said, eschewing all further comment, because I did not wish to interrupt the psychological anlysis of Philip Veritzen's motives in which she was indulging.

"Then ," she went on musingly, "with that nightmare over, he must have put his whole soul into an ambition for Noel to become an outstanding figure in the world. And, as I understand it, soon afterward Olina came to Long Island and he learned her identity."

She looked at me for my corroboration, but my nod of assent satisfied her, and she went on.

"I can see how the old wrongs—and perhaps a remembrance of something more tender—fused his determination to have Noel marry my daughter, and thus give to Philip's grandchildren the royal heritage which had been denied him. Poor warped soul, in this age when royal families and titles are being scattered like chaff, how foolish!"

"But a very real feeling and determination," I commented when she paused.

"Do you think he still cherishes it in spite of his son's marriage?" she asked, but quickly answered her own question.

"I can see that you do," she said, "but how do you reconcile that with your belief that he means to deprive Mary of her role in your play? I should think he would do everything in his power to make Mary a success, hoping that she would be so enthralled by her stage success that she would neglect and estrange her husband."

I tossed a mental bouquet at her shrewdness, but my reply reflected the weariness of my spirit, almost exhausted in the attempt to conjugate the moods and tenses of Philip Veritzen's vagaries.

"I can't reconcile it. Indeed, I have stopped trying to solve the problem. It's on the knees or in the lap—or whatever you say—of the gods, and no effort of mine can either solve it or avert whatever catastrophe is coming."

"Your mouth is too pretty for such Cassandra-like utterances," she said. "Surely there must be some way out. We are mature, experienced women, you and I. We certainly can devise some way to solve this problem of our young people."

"There is one way out," I said, "something which I believe would not only salve Philip Veritzen's pride, but put him in a mellow humor toward Noel, Mary and all the rest of the world."

She looked fixedly at me, and her cheeks suddenly flamed scarlet, for she was yet without the complete cosmetic make-up which defies flushes.

"I suppose you mean," she said, "my marrying Phil."

See that all the leftovers from your holiday feasts are carefully stored. Every scrap can be tastily utilized to help ease the strain on your budget. Gravies and sauces become main dishes when mixed into fish, fowl, meat or vegetables. Salad dressing, combined with dabs of cheese, dates, nuts and raisins, come out as first rate sandwich fillings for the lunch box or an informal tea. And for a pudding with a new topper, heat stale cake for 1 minutes in a covered double boiler, serve it hot spread with a medley of the pudding sauces.

Character is the inside decoration of man; reputation is the whitewash on the outside.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

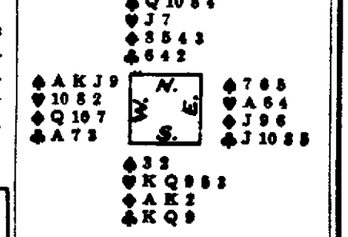
"The Authority on Authorities"

SOLICIT THEIR AID

PERCHANCE you see a nice tenace over there in the dummy, but have no card of the suit remaining to lead toward it for a winning finesse. Mayhap you also hold an equally good looking tenace in your own hand, but can't get into the dummy to lead toward it. In that emergency, what can you do? Why not give the opponents a chance to help you, by throwing one of them into the lead at just the right time.

South was the opening bidder here with 1-Heart, West doubled. North bid 1-Spade as a weakness interference. South 1-No Trump and West doubled again for a takeout. This time East bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Hearts and all passed.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

West ripped off two spades, then led the diamond 7 to the J and A. A heart to the J fell to the A, and East now led the club J to the K and A. The diamond Q return went to the K, and South now ran four hearts and led the diamond 2.

South didn't care much who won this. If East, he would have to lead into the club Q-9. West did win it, and had one card of each black suit left. If he returned the spade, the dummy would take two spades, so he chose the club, and South got two club tricks, making his contract for him.

Congress to Fight War-Time Powers for Roosevelt

STORM BREWS OVER PLAN OF NAVAL CHIEF

Long-Time Supporters of New Deal Among Opponents of Edison's Proposals.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A blast of criticism indicated today that the navy's recommendation to give the president peacetime emergency power to commandeer factories for naval construction faced formidable opposition in congress.

Even long-time supporters of the administration, such as Senator Minton of Indiana, the Democratic whip, joined in bi-partisan opposition to the proposal, made by Secretary Edison in a letter to Speaker Bankhead.

The proposal, which would broaden the powers now delegated to the president only in wartime, was being widely discussed as the administration pushed ahead with its defense program.

Detailing major plans for the next 18 months, the army and navy disclosed intention of strengthening materially their fortifications in the Pacific area.

The war department announced at the same time that all four field armies, made up of regular army and national guard troops, would take part for the first time late next summer in war games of at least three weeks' duration.

In the Pacific an outstanding military move scheduled is the construction of a major army air base near Anchorage Alaska. The base was one of six authorized in 1935, and the others have been started.

Want Funds Early.

To a $4,000,000 estimated outlay for the year ending next June 30, the war department proposed that more than $12,000,000 be made available in the following 12 months. Officials said the work would be pushed to rapid completion

Alaska is the northern apex of a defense triangle touching Hawaii and the Panama canal, for which the fleet and long range navy planes have the primary defense responsibility.

The navy proposed to proceed without delay in building up the air facilities of two key Pacific islands, Wake and Midway, in its long "line of observation" extending beyond the defense triangle.

For Midway, where army engineers have nearly completed a seaplane harbor, the navy asked $1,750,000 for "defense facilities" along with $335,000 for oil storage.

8 City Workers, Past 70, Allowed To Stay On Jobs

Requests of eight municipal employes, past the retirement age of 70, for permission to work for the city another year were approved today by the Public Employes Retirement board in Columbus.

The requests, made a month ago and approved by Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, were returned with the approval of the board which permits the employes to work until Dec. 31, 1940. To continue in service next year, after which retirement becomes compulsory, they will have to apply to the service-safety director and the board again.

Those who will continue in service, although eligible for retirement benefits, include six waterworks employes and one worker each in the sewer and garbage departments.

The water department employes are Alonzo Stoughton, Alexander Schwab, John E. Young, Theobold Schmitt, John Dorman and W. A. Painter. In the sewer department is J. H. Dir and in the garbage department, J. E. Sonner.

Drive Intensified for Assembly Session

Up and Down THE STREET

Probate court workers were looking for a home today for two Mansfield brothers, 13 and 15 years old, whose mother is about to be evicted from her home. The boys' father abandoned them, leaving the mother without funds to pay rent and keep the boys in school. Court officers said the youths have good records and want a chance to earn their board and room so they can go to school.

Roy Vaughn is suspected of having something to do with the novel invitations the Prospect Park association used to announce the association's card tournament set for Monday. The invitation as well as the address is printed on the back of a regular playing card. Vaughn, a member of the association, has used novel methods of notifying members of his bowling league of meetings for years. His last notification was on miniature bowling pins but that time he forgot to add the most important thing—the date of the meeting.

The birthday anniversary today of Mrs. Elizabeth Guenther, 136 West First street, brought to light the fact that four members of her family were born on birthdays of United States presidents. A son, Raymond, was born on McKinley's birthday; a daughter, Elverda, on Franklin D. Roosevelt's; a son-in-law on Lincoln's and a deceased daughter on George Washington's anniversary.

The current prolonged cold wave may be hard on the family fuel supply, but Mansfield's youth is enjoying it. With the lakes covered with thick ice and hills blanketed with snow, winter sports are the best in recent years. Skates, skiis, and toboggans have been popular all week—and the boys and girls were complaining only two weeks ago that the warm weather had darkened the outlook for winter sports.

GET SILK LOOT

Gunmen Lock 7 Employes in Room Filled With Steam.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Six armed men locked seven silk company employes in a room charged with live steam last night and made off with $15,000 in silk—but only after the superintendent had risked his life to plead that the steam be turned off.

Several of the employes of the Supreme Skein Dying co., of Brooklyn had dropped under the intense heat when the superintendent, Louis Wachter, burst from the chamber shouting:

"For God's sake let me turn off the steam or we'll all die. The temperature is 120 degrees in there now and getting hotter."

"Okay, one of the men grunted. "Turn off the steam—and get back in there quick."

Wachter did as he was told—under the muzzle of one of two sub-machine guns the six carried—while silk was being loaded in a truck at the building's rear.

LABOR BOARD PROBE RESUMES

Capital Hears Roosevelt to Give Madden Court Post in Reply to Critics.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The special house committee resumes its investigation of the National Labor Relations board today as the administration considered answering some labor critics by elevating its chairman, J. Warren Madden to the third circuit court of appeals.

Madden's promotion to the judiciary and his replacement by a man who would work in closer harmony with board member William M. Leiserson appeared as a possible answer to such criticism as the American Federation of Labor who have complained more about administration of the act than the statute itself.

Attorney General Frank Murphy, Mr. Roosevelt's newest appointee to the supreme court, admitted yesterday that Madden was being considered for the vacancy in the third circuit created by appointment of Judge Francis J. Biddle, former labor board chairman, as solicitor general. Madden, whose term expires next Aug. 27, is a former law professor at Oklahoma, Ohio State, West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Stanford, Chicago and Cornell universities.

The house committee's witness today will be Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director of the labor board's New York office.

ROMEO AND JULIET ELOPE, END SOCIETY'S TURBULENT ROMANCE

BULLETIN

NORTH CONWAY, N. H. — (INS) — Eileen Herrick and George Lowther 3rd were married today.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Somewhere, the long-lovelorn Eileen Herrick and George Lowther III are getting married today, so the story goes, while the bride's wealthy father, Walter Herrick, sits at home brooding silently in defeat.

Thus ends happily for everybody but Papa and Mama Herrick, high society's most turbulent romance of the season.

Herrick, who had done everything possible to preserve his pretty, 20-year-old daughter's single-blessedness, and who refused, hours after she was gone, to concede the worst, finally retired to an arm chair before the fireplace last night, wept and admitted: "It's all over now."

Until then he stubbornly insisted that his daughter was just "missing," and he so informed the police department's missing persons bureau.

But Lowther's attorney, friend and fixer, Eli Johnson, broke the news, not gently and privately, but for Papa Herrick and everybody else to read in the newspapers.

"They've eloped," he said. "Miss Herrick will communicate with her mother afterwards. They are properly chaperoned and the dog (Gypsy, a black setter which Miss Herrick took for a walk as an excuse to get away from home) is with them."

He said they had gone to a secret destination, to which they were speeding by automobile, train and airplane, and that it was no use to try to find them. After a honeymoon in Nassau, he said, "the happy couple will return to New York where Mr. Lowther will continue with his insurance business and she will keep house for him."

REMY RITES SET

Former Mansfield Resident to Be Buried Here Monday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Leistensider Remy, a former Mansfield resident, who died at her home in Los Angeles, Calif., Saturday, will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 3 p. m. Monday with Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church officiating. The body which will be placed in the mausoleum at Mansfield cemetery will arrive in this city late Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Remy was a native of Mansfield and resided here until the death of her husband, Dr. Edward Remy, 14 years ago. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

The survivors include a daughter, Marianna of Los Angeles; a sister; Mrs. John Friday, and a brother, John Leistensnider of this vicinity.

EX-RAILROADER DIES AT AGE 59

Henry Moore, 59-year-old retired railroad conductor, died last night at his home in Bellville, where he and his family had recently moved from Mansfield.

Moore, who had worked 38 years for the Pennsylvania railroad, was a member of the Pennsylvania's 25-year club. He is survived by his wife, Mary; two sons, Everett of Toledo and Lowell of Mansfield; a brother, Millard of Fredericktown; a sister, Mrs. L. Corwin of Toledo and two grandsons.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the Shafer funeral home in Bellville. Burial will be in the Bellville cemetery.

OHIO SENATORS ADD 'PRESSURE' ON GOV. BRICKER

Predictions Made Relief and Pensions Will Be Debated Early in February.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Agitation among legislators for a special session of the Ohio general assembly, formerly confined to lower house members, apparently has spread to the senate, it became evident today.

While senate clerk Tom Bateman denied knowledge of reports that "pressure" was being brought in the senate to force a session, Sen. Frank E. Whittemore (R-Akron), majority floor leader in the upper house, asserted the law-makers would be recalled next month.

"I haven't heard anything from senate leaders that would indicate they wanted to reconvene," Bateman declared earlier. "If there is any such move on foot, the members of the house are behind it."

Otis R. Johnson, clerk of the house, admitted that a "number" of representatives had told him they would be in favor of having Governor Bricker call them back.

"But I get as many letters from representatives who are against a session as I do from those favoring one," Johnson explained. "And the majority of those asking for one seem to be Democrats."

Rep. J. Harry McGregor (R-Coshocton), majority floor leader in the house, joined Sen. Lawrence Kane (R-Cincinnati), in predicting several days ago that a special session probably would be called in the near future.

While neither openly urged that Governor Bricker reverse his stand and recall the lawmakers, each apparently was expecting one and hinted he would not oppose it. Kane even suggested that the chief executive include in any possible call the relief problem and a possible boost in the maximum monthly old age pension payments.

Fire Chief Says Laundry Bills Not O. K.'d By Him.

ASHLAND — Mayor Howard Lutz today was told by Fire Chief Charles Clark that increased laundry costs when the department's work was done by a wife of a fireman was not his responsibility.

Lutz had asked for an explanation after pointing out laundry expenses had risen two and a half times over the charges of a commercial laundry which formerly did the work.

In a letter to the mayor, Clark said: "The only thing I can tell you is that there were less beds used. . . . This was taken care of by the ex-mayor and there were no bills brought to me for an o.k."

Searchers Beat Over Wide Area In California Forests.

REDDING, Calif. — (AP) — Searchers resumed today what appeared to be the hopeless task of finding 14-year-old Billy Coleman alive in densly-wooded terrain near Lassen Peak.

Young Coleman, just recovering from an attack of influenza, vanished on New Year day from a cabin near here. A searching party which numbered from 200 to 500, beat over a 12 mile square area without success.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Cites Illinois Lawmaker As Link In Government, Criminals' 'Partnership'

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Daniel A. Serritella of Chicago is a Republican member of the Illinois state senate whose official position may be cited to prove the actual connection between government and the criminal underworld in that city and state.

To the people of Chicago and Illinois it may seem naive to labor the point that the underworld participates in their government. Few of them can remember when they did not accept this fact as the normal condition in American life.

Although he is a Republican, Serritella is a political ally of the ruling Democratic gang which has subsisted largely on the graft taken from a big syndicate of horse-gambling rooms.

In 1937 Serritella and the Moe Annenberg mob of horse-room racketeers brought out a scratch sheet in opposition to one published by the Bulletin Record Publishing company. The Bulletin Record crowd brought suit against these rivals in the federal court, charging infringement and monopoly.

A scratch sheet is a gambler's trade journal dealing in betting information and predictions regarding the races. It also provides for its subscribers by phone the results of the races and other last-minute advice.

To defend this politico-criminal racket the Democratic machine has audaciously argued gambling on the races is an ineradicable local custom and that the horse-rooms, therefore, constitute a public utility. Judges elected by the ruling mob refuse to convict employes or operators of the rooms, and the police customarily let them alone.

Everything was going along efficiently until last fall, when Moe Annenberg discovered that he had outsmarted himself several years ago by pleading that an estranged business partner could not sue him because they were both engaged in an illegal business. Last fall Moe was about to be indicted in the federal court on charges of income tax evasion and other offenses, but he was still fighting against a court proceeding intended to cut off his telephone and telegraph facilities.

Then, abruptly, it was recalled that in 1934 he not only admitted but insisted that his business was illegal, and the federal court thereupon refused to forbid the suspension of his wire facilities. So Moe abruptly abandoned his nationwide horse-wire racket and subsidiary activities and quit cold.

Reform is more or less rife at the moment; led by Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Daily News, and Tom Courtney, the Cook county prosecutor. Frank Murphy, the federal attorney general, is participating as an added but enthusiastic started.

But Senator Serritella did not quit. On Dec. 6 he demanded the State Commerce commission compel the telephone company to continue to provide telephone service for his scratch sheet. Courtney had warned the telephone company to suspend this service. Serritella apparently forgot, however, that he, too, like Annenberg, on a previous occasion, when it suited his legal convenience to do so, had admitted, in effect, that his business was illegal.

In the Bulletin Record case he asked that his adversary's petition be thrown out of court, and the judge, in dismissing the action, held that Serritella, as well as the plaintiff, had been in an unlawful undertaking. A scratch sheet, like a burglar's jimmy, was intended to be used in violating the law.

But he is still at it. A state senator, a powerful member of the government operating an important accessory to the chief racket of the ruling machine, now demands that a state commission compel the telephone company to furnish service for the furtherance of a vice that has poisoned the very blood of American government in the second city of the republic.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Once in a long while a sentimental interest of mine becomes news, and the making of "Irene" is one of them. The first musical comedy I ever saw is hitting the screen, importantly because its heroine is Anna Neagle, the blue-eyed girl whose quietly sensitive performance as "Nurse Edith Cavell" is still one of the year's best.

From the drab tale of a nurse's tragedy to the rags-to-riches story of an Irish colleen in a New York dressmaking salon may seem quite a jump—emotionally as well as sartorically—but Miss Neagle is equal to it.

Catching her before the camera in a salon scene in which she models a spangled silk white something called (I quote Roland Young's dialogue to Billie Burke) neige enchantee, you know at once that Miss Neagle runs the risk of having her serious Cavell run second in popular fancy to her Irene: she has sparkle and beauty and a fine comedy sense.

Her producer-director, Herbert Wilcox, is piloting her again. Before he calls "Quieten up!" (the Wilcox preface to shooting or rehearsing) he tells me about Madame Lucy.

Madame Lucy, in the stage version, turned out to be a man, a fluttery, swishy sort but a man for a' that. Madame Lucy remains in the film, but—

"The humorous possibilities of the male swish," says Wilcox, have been exhausted. They don't belong on the screen."

Madame Lucy becomes, in the picture, simply the trade name for the firm headed by—the virile hero, Ray Milland.

The old songs — Alice Blue Gown, Irene, Castle of Dreams, Something in the Air — will be heard again. There's a new one, too: "You've Got Me Out on a Limb.

I can hardly wait.

That old airplane on stilts, the one Richard Dix and Chester Morris have been "livin in" for four films in a row, ought to reach a museum some day. They're in it again (or jumping from it, as when I saw them) for "The Marines Fly High."

It takes 14 men—count 'em, 14 to complete a movie parachute jump besides the jumpers. The sturdy fourteen stand around a firemen's net, beneath the plane, and just wait.

Dix went over first, achieving a sound effect which had me running for the 'phone. I thought he'd cracked his neck. Morris followed—bump, c-r-u-n-c-h.

"This picture will be different," said Chet afterward. "Dix gets the girl (Lucille Ball) this time."

It's a scene for "New Moon," the MacDonald-Eddy operetta of early Louisiana. Jeanette, looking luscious like pink frosted cake, is selling Nelson up the river to Baton Rouge (pronounced very Frenchily) and it sounds like the second-act curtain on any stage musical—boy loses girl.

Nelson is supposed to reply angrily to her tongue-lashing, and storm out haughtily with a snappy comeback and "Adieu."

The first time he calls it "A-Dew," and the second time he calls it "A-do." The third time he calls it "Goodbye," which sounds just 10 times better. And for the take, he leaves it out completely—which is, strangely, perfect.
